President Will Return to TV Tonight, 9:30

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower, reportedly planning new jabs at Adlai E. Stevenson, returns to the campaign platform tonight in Philadelphia for further discussion of the Middle East crisis.

In a television-radio address to be carried coast to coast (9:30 p. m., EST, NBC network), the President may have something to say about a contention by Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, that "the world is on the brink of war again" because, Stevenson said, Eisenhower's "foreign policies in the Middle East have been disastrous."

Stevenson made the statement in a campaign speech in Pittsburgh last night, and contended again, as he had earlier in New York, that the Eisenhower administration "bears heavy responsibility" for the situation.

Will Answer Adlai

Presidential aides predicted Eisenhower will fire back at Stevenson tonight in making his third bid of the campaign for Pennsylvania's 32 electoral votes. Eisenhower opened his re-election bid at Gettysburg Sept. 12 and he spoke at Pittsburgh Oct. 9.

In announcing that the President will discuss the Midde East situation further tonight, Hagerty underscored it will be a campaign address.

Asked yesterday whether Eisenhower's talk would be political in nature, Hagerty replied:

"It's on a campaign platform—certainly."

The Middle East crisis caused Eisenhower to cancel a campaign trip he had scheduled for yesterday into Texas, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

Away Only Few Hours

And it was not until yesterday that he decided to go ahead with tonight's Philadelphia speech, which was arranged last week. Aides said the decision was based on the fact that the engagement will take the President out of Washington for only a few hours.

He and Mrs. Eisenhower plan to travel to Philadelphia by special train, leaving here at 6:30 p. m., EST. Weather permitting, they intend to fly back to Washington immediately after his speech.

Hagerty said Eisenhower has under consideration only one more campaign address—a trip to Boston for a speech Monday night, election eve.

Council Silent on Session

Two-Hour Parley Held On Middle East Crisis

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower met for two hours today with National Security Council, expanded to include military and civil chiefs of the armed services, in a full dress review of the Middle East crisis.

The session of the nation's top strategy board opened at the White House at 9 a. m. EST. It broke up just before 11.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, in announcing the end of the meeting, said he had no statement to make.

The Security Council never divulges its deliberations.

Eisenhower ruled out last night the use of American armed forces in the present situation brought about by the Israeli attack on Egypt and British-French intervention.

But the Security Council—the country's top strategic planning agency — has responsibilities reaching far outside the purely military into coordination of diplomatic and economic action.

Thus its apparent task was to plan how to gear U. S. activities generally to the major pledges made by Eisenhower last night in his special radio-TV report to the nation:

1. To rely first on the United Nations for a solution to "this tormenting problem."

2. To do all within the United States' own power "to localize the fighting and to end the conflict."

One matter certain to come in for major attention at the Security Council session was American strategy in the UN general assembly, called into special session late today for an effort to end the fighting.

"In the past," Eisenhower said last night, "the United Nations has proved able to find a way to end bloodshed. We believe it can and will do so again."

He set up no specific plan for this country's individual actions.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. U. S. ambassador to the United Nations who frequently attends security council meetings, stayed in New York city for the Assembly session. Vice President Nixon, who seldom misses a council meeting, was absent.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters yesterday, in response to questions, that the council session today would be a full dress

Police Queried Over Nation

West Coast Man Is Arrested For Bad Checks in Po'keepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—A young man who liked to "live good," and carried a list of high class eating places and a travel guide to help him was arrested yesterday after cashing a worthless check at a bank here, police said.

He identified himself as Walter Kimble Davey, 28, of Los Angeles and admitted cashing $8,000 worth of checks in seven cities from coast to coast since August, Police Chief John Martin said.

Davey was held in the Dutchess county jail for grand jury action on a charge of second degree larceny, while Martin asked police chiefs from here to Oregon if they were on Davey's trail.

Martin said Davey told him he liked to "live good," stay at the best hotels, wear the best clothes and eat in the nation's finest restaurants. To finance his taste, he said, he drew checks on nonexistent funds.

When he was arrested in the Merchants National Branch of the Dutchess Bank and Trust Company, Davey had a book, "Travel America," tucked under one arm. In his pocket, police found a Duncan Hines list of recommended eating places throughout the nation.

Davey was tripped up, police said, by the suspicions of officers of another bank where he tried to cash a check. He was followed to the Merchants Bank and arrested after cashing a check for $467.89.

Police said Davey admitted serving three prison terms in other states on check charges, but police had no details.

Britain, France May Boycott

76-Nation Parley To Meet at 5 P. M.

United Nations, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—The United States was reported ready today to take the lead in pressing the emergency UN Assembly for a quick Middle East cease-fire.

This word came as the 76-nation assembly prepared to meet tonight (5 p. m. EST) to try to get around the difficulties raised by British and French vetoes in the Security Council.

Whether Britain and France would attend the meeting still was not known. Spokesmen for the two delegations said the question had not been decided.

Two Opposed Meeting

Both countries vigorously opposed the calling of the meeting.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., was reported to be working with a group of other countries, including key members of the African-Asian bloc, on a resolution which would call for an immediate cease-fire and demand the immediate withdrawal of Israeli, British and French forces from Egyptian territory.

The UN Security Council voted 7-2 last night to summon the assembly after Britain and France launched air and naval operations against Egypt with the announced aim of occupying the Suez Canal Zone and halting the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

Less than 24 hours earlier Britain and France had vetoed U. S. and Soviet resolutions in the council for a cease-fire in Egypt and withdrawal of Israeli troops.

Under the resolution introduced by Yugoslavia, the special session of the 76-nation assembly will consider recommendations to UN members for collective measures, including "the use of

Eden Faces Censure for Armed Force

London, Nov. 1 (AP)—The British-French attack on Egypt today brought down on the handsome gray head of Sir Anthony Eden the greatest storm of his three decades in politics.

In the House of Commons tonight the prime minister faces a motion of censure deploring the government's resort to armed force and requiring his resignation if the motion was approved.

Has Majority

Eden's Conservative party has an over-all majority of 60 votes, making defeat for the government unlikely, but even in the rank's of Eden's own followers there were reported to be misgivings over his handling of the Suez affair.

The Daily Express, which supports Eden's policy, predicted there would be "at least one resignation from the government" as a result of the action against Egypt.

Newkirk's Son-in-Law Is Killed in Highway Mishap

A 21-year-old Monticello man, the son-in-law of acting Postmaster and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk, and the driver of the truck in which he was riding, were killed Wednesday when their tractor-trailer overturned on Route 8 north of Cassville, Oneida county.

Dead are: William Joseph Edwards, 21, husband of the former Beatrice Ann Newkirk, and Howard Gries, 29, of Tyler Hill, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were married September 1.

A graduate of the Syracuse University Forestry School, Mr. Edwards and Mr. Gries were employed by Maple Crest Nurseries, Monticello.

Mr. Newkirk told The Freeman today that Chadwick state police had reconstructed the accident this way:

The two men were returning to Monticello after doing nursery work near Utica. Near Chadwick, on a slippery, two-lane macadam road, Mr. Gries, who was making a right hand turn, apparently tried to slow down and the trailer jacknifed. He said the cab was severed from the trailer, ran up an embankment and overturned, pinning both men in the cab.

Mr. Newkirk said the Oneida county coroner who investigated issued a verdict of death due to suffocation.

Funeral services for Mr. Edwards will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m. in the Rock Hill Methodist Church, Rock Hill, the Rev. Blaine Taylor officiating. Burial will be in Fantinekill Cemetery, Ellenville. Friends may call at the Van Inwegen Funeral Home, Broadway, Monticello, Friday afternoon and evening.

Surviving besides his wife are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards of Monticello; a grandmother; two sisters, Patricia and Joan of Monticello; and three brothers, Lamont, Thomas and Kevin, all of Monticello.

Narcotics, Gambling Counts Bring Arrests

An Ellenville physician, charged with violation of the state narcotics law, and a village special policeman, charged with perjury, illegal sale of intoxicating liquors and gambling, were arrested Wednesday by the Ulster county sheriff's office and Ellenville police.

Dr. William Bockman, 48, of 49 Center street, and Thomas Shelby, 56, a part time policeman, were arrested on bench warrants. They were released in $5,000 bail each. Both warrants were executed by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, Deputy Sheriff Peter Peterson and Ellenville police.

The arrests were the result of two of eight sealed indictments returned by the Grand Jury at the October term of Supreme Court at which Justice Donald S. Taylor presided. Both will be arraigned in County Court which is scheduled to convene next week.

Dr. Bockman, who had been practicing medicine in Ellenville since he arrived there last January from Sullivan county, recently brought a $150,000 damages action against several physicians. He charged they had

Area Chest Drive Nearing 90 Per Cent of Full Goal

The Kingston Area Community Chest's third annual campaign was approaching 90 per cent of its goal yesterday as October, traditional month for united community campaigns, ended.

With $90,731.50 in pledges reported at the close of business on Wednesday, Chest officials were predicting that the total would pass the $100,000 mark by the end of this week, and that there was a "very good chance" the $108,000 goal would be reached before Thanksgiving Day.

Paul F. Steinkuller, general chairman of the drive, has announced that efforts will continue until the goal is reached, "not so much for the sake of reaching the goal, as to provide the funds so vitally needed by the eight member agencies of the Chest."

The nearly $10,000 needed to reach the $100,000 mark is assured, according to John R. Warren, executive director, through pledges already solicited but not yet turned in to the Chest office. The final $8,000 to put the drive "over the top" will

Passage Is Blocked on Big Canal

Cairo Says Five Craft Shot Down

London, Nov. 1 (AP) — British and French planes carried on nonstop attacks on Egyptian airfields today and Cairo announced attacking aircraft sank an Egyptian warship in the Suez Canal—blocking traffic and cutting off oil shipping to Europe.

Cairo said British and French warplanes raided Egyptian troops at crossing points along the canal and in the operation sank the Egyptian warship Akka in Timsah Lake just south of Ismailia, midway point of the canal.

Britain and France launched military operations against President Nasser's regime last night with the declared purpose of protecting the Mideast waterway from fighting swirling between Egyptian and Israeli forces in the Sinai Desert.

Israelis See Retreat

The Egyptians gave out no official information today on the fighting with Israeli troops. But the Israelis claimed Egyptian troops were in retreat and would soon be cut off in the Sinai peninsula.

Even before Egypt announced blocking of the canal, shipping was reported turning back from its approaches because of danger from military operations.

Egypt asked other Arab states to block another source for Middle East oil—the pipelines from the main production centers to Mediterranean ports.

Relations Are Broken

Egypt broke off diplomatic relations with Britain and France. Jordan broke relations with France.

Cairo dispatches said five air-raid alarms sounded in Cairo up to early afternoon, and Egyptian military headquarters claimed five British planes were shot down over the Nile delta.

Troops of the two western nations had not showed up in the area of operations, but their landing on Egyptian soil was expected.

British planes with cannon and rocket fire were reported in official announcements here and at Cyprus, their base, to be striking hard at five Egyptian airfields in the Suez zone and Nile delta in an effort to destroy Nasser's Soviet-built Mig airforces on the ground.

British Claim 14 Planes

British pilots said they had destroyed 14 Egyptian planes on the ground, including Soviet Mig-15 fighters. The pilots said they had encountered almost no resistance.

It was limited, they said, to ineffective antiaircraft fire and a lone fighter which attempted to intervene.

The air strikes, beginning at dawn after a night of British and French bombing attacks, were aimed at the airfields of Abu Sueir, Fayid and Kabrit in the canal zone, Inchass, 35 miles from Cairo, and Kasfareet.

Reports Frigate Sunk

The reported sinking of the Egyptian warship in the canal, followed the British announcement that another Egyptian warship had been sunk in the

Some Dangerous Incidents Are Reported As Kingston Observes Halloween Date

A well dampened Halloween wet down mischief in the city last night but a police log of all reported incidents from late afternoon until midnight showed scattered waves of damaging and dangerous pranks.

A new local high in the apparent criminal instinct prompting the acts of some pranksters showed up in two reports that older boys were stealing the trick-or-treat bags of smaller celebrants, and among the more dangerous incidents was the firing of a .22 calibre shot through a downtown store window.

Two young men caught fighting on Pine Grove avenue were arrested, paint was splashed on automobiles, a dummy lowered from the Broadway underpass bridge threatened traffic mishap, and several windows were broken, but only one false alarm was reported during the night.

The first report to indicate that Halloween mischief was under way came at 4:38 p. m., when boys were reported throwing matches in leaves near the Millens junk yard on East Strand. The reports continued from then on at the rate of several an hour until 12:41 a. m.

First report of the theft of trick-or-treat bags from smaller children came at 6:40 p. m., from the area of Farrelly and Emerick streets, where it was indicated that five young men, or older boys, riding in a sedan had taken the bags from the youngsters and driven away. A similar incident was reported at 8:15 p. m., from Elmendorf street.

A report at 9:10 p. m., said a shot had been fired through a plate glass window in a door at the Carson store, 595 Delaware avenue. Officers William Snyder and Frank Monte investigated and reported finding a .22 calibre slug on the inside of a coat which had been hanging near the

County Sets Registration Record, State Shows Drop

Ulster county set a new record this year for voting registrations while New York State's official registration figures showed a decrease of 152,000 from the all-time record of four years ago, according to figures reported by the Department of State.

A record registration of 68,367 for the county surpasses the previous high in 1952 by 1,858. This year's figure is exactly 7,000 more than the 1955 total of 61,-367.

94 Districts in County

The breakdown showed 16,044 personal registrations and 52,323 non-personal. Of the 94 election districts in the county, 20 have personal registration and 74 have non-personal.

Male and female registrations in the county are almost equally divided with 34,027 males and 34,340 females.

The State count still lacked some absentee and military registrants. A Republican spokesman estimated approximately 10,000 had not been reported yet.

Total registration for the 1952 presidential election was 7,841,-967.

Both in New York city and outside the city women outnumber the men in registration. Statewide, there are 3,892,634

Third Quarter Pulling Down Profits for Many Companies

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—A disappointing third quarter for many companies has pulled high soaring profits down for the first nine months of the year. They are now even with last year for American business taken as a whole.

This is still a very high level. But it breaks the streams of year-by-year gains which had characterized corporate earnings since 1952.

502 Firms in Survey

This is the indication today from a survey of the first 502 corporations to report net profits after taxes for the first nine months of 1956. Combined, their earnings this year trail those of the same period in 1955 by 0.5 per cent. This is only a preliminary report. Hundreds more will make public their earnings statements in the week ahead and the final figure could be different.

The combined drop so far shows up despite record earnings reported by many companies and despite the fact that two out of three of the 502 corporations show increases over last year's figures.

The declining third, however,—especially those in the auto, steel farm equipment industries and individual giants in the chemical, electronics, and aircraft fields—took a deep enough plunge to outweigh the gainers and bring the total, or average, down.

Optimistic on Future

But many of those who reported smaller profits this time declare that the final months of this year look so good for their business that much of the drop will be erased.

The steel strike last summer gets much of the blame for poor third quarter figures which pulled down the gains made in the first of the year. Steel companies, railroads serving them and some of steel's customers suffered.

The auto industry has had its own sales troubles, but hopes they're over now.

Declining farm incomes show up in the profit and loss statements of the farm equipment makers and also in those of chemical companies making fertilizers. Building material firms suffered from the decline in home building.

But for many corporations the story was simply this: Operating costs—labor and materials—have been rising faster that sales volume or prices for their finished products.

On the other side of the picture there are glowing reports from many of the oil companies, coal companies, and nonferrous mining companies — although with the last the report is far from unanimous.

Report Gains

Good gains are reported by the following groups: Shipping, retail, drugs, rail equipment, business machines, machine tools and machinery. Also stepping ahead of last year are these groups: Oil equipment, rubber, cement, electrical equipment, appliances, food, tobacco, airlines and utilities.

The 420 industrials in the survey, with 124 not doing as well as last year, show a combined drop of 1.0 per cent from a year ago. The 27 utilities are up 8.9 per cent. The 46 railroads, with 30 showing a decline, were off as a group by 9.9 per cent.

Combined, the 502 corporations report earnings of $7,889,701,575 for the first nine months of 1956. In the similar period of 1955 the same 502 made $7,933,888,006.

This year 11 of them operated at a loss. Last year 13 did.

If the final months of the year boom as now seems likely, the profit report for the entire year should make a favorable comparison with super-booming 1955.

Births Recorded

The city registrar recently recorded the following births:

Oct. 24—Rosemarie to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Francis Weeks, 18 Smith avenue; Deborah Ann to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanley Kruszenski, Spring Lake Trailer Park; Wayne Edward to Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Romer, Jr., Box 127-N, New Paltz, and Mark Kevin to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Joseph Ryan, Sawkill Trailer Park.

Oct. 25—Rose Marie to Mr. and Mrs. John Parete, Buck Road, Stone Ridge; Sandra to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Katz, 137 Washington avenue, and Elizabeth Ann to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reamer, 54 South Field street, town of Ulster.

Oct. 26—John Mayo to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frank Sperath, Modena Road, town of New Paltz, and Daniel Wayne to Mr. and Mrs. Harold William Burke, Route 1, Box 405, Kingston.

Get a Horse!

Waco, Tex. (AP)—A steady increase in student-owned automobiles is giving Baylor University here some headaches. This year, there are only 1,022 parking spaces on the campus and 2,000 cars are registered for campus parking. Dean of Men W. C. Perry said new parking space costs the university $500. Four new parking areas have been added since last year and three are being constructed. This still doesn't keep up with demand.

POLITICAL DITCH DIGGING

Americans never have been famed for their capacity to endure boredom. And that may be one reason they find it hard to get stirred up over politics.

The scholars like to say that characteristically we seek excitement, demand diversion from the dull and the routine, and show impatience of monotony in any form.

This accounts, they say, for our devotion to the movies, to television, to watching professional sports, and to gadding about in automobiles.

Now, of course, politics does sometimes meet the test of affording excitement. When people are angered or otherwise aroused over national conditions, they jump into the fray and like it. Convention battles and other contests do occasionally fire them up.

But the day in, day out grind of politics leaves most people cold. They don't care to work at it, either as professionals or volunteers. They don't pay too much attention to it. And, as the record shows, all too many don't even vote.

Admittedly, there is much in politics to lull the nerves. Some politicians are incredibly talky and tiresome. They make no concession to listener interest.

Yet the best of them have their problems. The grueling demands of barnstorming schedules make repetition of simple, set speeches a virtual necessity. These can be as boring to the speaker as to the listener, as can many other chores the candidate performs in the course of his usually long day.

Nevertheless, most of the toil is inescapably a part of politics. Indeed, one might almost say that by one definition a politician is a man with a demonstrated capacity for enduring boredom.

Obviously, politicians ought never to yield the field easily to boring practices. They have a responsibility to make politics seem as vital as it really is. But the inescapable repetition and monotony are things many Americans perhaps must learn to bear better than they do.

Monotony and routine are a part not only of politics but of life itself.

Excitement is a wonderful tonic. But there is surprising pleasure and satisfaction in probing beneath the surface of the average day's "dull round." The routine often can be enlivened by insights of humor and small touches of drama. It is even possible to elevate the routine into a kind of long-unfolding drama.

If we insist on a diet of constant large excitements, some of life can get away from us. And this can include our government.

ROOM FOR ALL

The advent of television threatened to deal a near knockout blow to motion picture houses a few years ago, or so it seemed. Now independent television stations are buying up old movies, with the result that live television is getting a brisk run for its money.

The fact is that no type of entertainment is doomed to extinction if management and production genius continues alert and aggressive. All are to a degree interdependent, and each has a definite place to fill.

There was a time when the legitimate theatre was weak and wobbly under the pressure of radio and motion picture competition. But the legitimate stage came back strong and is now at a near peak of popularity. And as for good old vaudeville, it is coming back or is already here via the medium of television.

A growing and thriving country, with more money than ever to spend, will continue to provide ample space for all the important entertainment media.

No one could accuse Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of lacking imagination. He has just called for a western European confederation in which no one country could block the will of the majority.

HUNGARY AND FOOD

Revolutions usually explode spontaneously, although they are planned for decades. It is often so that the planners have little to do with the actual uprising and sometimes, they are able to take hold of the situation and ofttimes, it gets beyond them with an amazing rapidity. The Russian Revolution of 1917 started as a palace revolt of a pro-Ally group, but the Bolsheviks seized it after nearly eight months and then they reaped all the fruits of the Revolution. Lack of food is one of the most usual causes for the discontent of a people. The Hungarians are a wheat-meat eating nation, accustomed to good cooking and a plentiful supply.

In April 1952, the Moscow Economic Conference was called by the World Peace Council, a Communist group, with the object of improving the trade of Comunist countries. The Hungarian delegation to this Conference stated that beginning with 1953, Hungary would be able to export 300,000 tons of grain a year to Western countries. This represented about half of Hungary's pre-World War II grain exports.

However, by the end of 1952, the Hungarian government had to admit that the crops had fallen far short of the planned targets. Food exports were slashed, but that did not eliminate the food shortage within Hungary, which once had been regarded as the "bread basket" of Europe. While subsequent harvests were somewhat better, this year, Hungary was forced to buy grain in Canada. Weather did its part, but also bad management of the collective farms and lack of fertilizer played a considerable role in producing an inadequate productivity. A free people does not function competently under a collective system. At least two generations have to be killed to make a go of collectivism.

A people may be willing to suffer austerity for their own nation, but surely not for an alien conqueror. And the Russians are aliens, so far as the Hungarians are concerned. Centuries ago, when the Magyars settled in their Danubian land, they separated the East Slavs from the West Slavs, the North Slavs from the South Slavs. Then they were required by the course of events to decide whether they would choose the Orthodox Church of the East or the Roman Catholic Church of the West. They chose Rome, largely because they feared the East. Although Hungary and Poland have been related and even at one time united by marriage, there is no record from the beginning of the Magyar invasion of Europe until the Communist conquest of their country by Stalin of the Hungarians ever turning eastward for their culture, their religion or any other phase of their lives. For Hungary culturally associated itself with Western Europe. It is therefore not astonishing that the Hungarian revolt should be so violent and so positively anti-Russian.

Poland, on the other hand, includes numerous Russian elements, remnants not only of Czarist days when Poland was part of the Russian Empire, but also from earlier times when Poland ruled over parts of what is now Russia. Also the languages of Russia and Poland are cognate, in the Slavic group. While the Poles are Roman Catholic, some of the related peoples on the borders are Orthodox as are still many of the inhabitants of Russia. Polish intellectuals, while nationalistic, have a history of association with Russian revolutionists in the Czarist days, and many of them have long been Marxists. I make this point only to emphasize one difference between Hungary and Poland in the present situation.

However, Poland has also suffered from unsatisfactory crops and also from excessive withdrawal of manufactured goods from Poland to Russia. As a matter of fact, Poland, to avoid the effects of cyclical tendencies in the West to which Poland exported coal, accepted a doctrine of concentrating exports to Soviet Russia and to the satellites. Poland has been the biggest foreign exchange earner in the Soviet bloc because of her coal exports. To this country, Poland also exports ham, although there is no shortage of home-grown pigs in the United States.

It is surprising that no word has come from Bulgaria. This country, even when Georgi Dimitrov was alive, accepted the Titoist doctrine and was duly slapped down by Stalin. It has since gone through a difficult economic period and one wonders what the Bulgarian response to events in Poland and Hungary is.

THE HANDICAPPED CHILD

We have been talking the last few days about the parents of children who are mentally or physically crippled and I have been quoting at length from an article by Dr. Ruth Bakwin of the Children's Medical Service, Bellevue Hospital, N.Y.C., on helping the physically handicapped child to face the world. Since the attitude of the parents is most important in helping the several million such children, we have considered that first. Now let us consider how such defects affect the child himself.

The presence of a physical handicap frequently leads to feelings of inferiority and of insecurity in the child. It threatens personality development by interfering with his normal activity and by isolating him from other children. It encourages overprotection and over-solicitude on the part of the parents which keep the child immature. The handicapped child feels different from other children. The desire to conform, to be the same as others, usually appears at school age but when a physical defect is present, it may appear earlier.

There are two personalities in the disabled person, fighting with each other—the one he was basically, with all the potentialities and desires of the healthy individual, and the one resulting from damages due to his handicap. These two personalities must become at home with each other, become one, before the child can become adjusted emotionally. This is accomplished when the person accepts his handicap and figures out his possibilities.

Some children accept the anxious, overprotecting attitude of the parents, becoming submissive, dependent, and perhaps anxious themselves. They wish to be helped and catered to and remain infantile and immature. Temper tantrums are frequent when the parent does not respond to their requests quickly enough. Those who react with anxiety may have night terrors, fear of being alone, and the need to have the mother constantly at hand.

Still other children rebel, denying illness by exaggeration of activity and refusing to follow directions or carry out treatment. Sometimes rebellion is shown by repeated attempts to be independent of help and when the child is unable to succeed in what he tries, he becomes frustrated and disturbed.

Illnesses and disability are sometimes accepted by the child as satisfying experiences because of the attention and care given him. It is difficult to get these children to make any effort to help themselves. They appear indifferent and disinterested, except when they are demanding attention.

Some parents deliberately adopt a casual attitude toward their child's defect, thinking it will help him more than over-emphasizing it. This attitude may be bewildering to the child who, not appreciating the severity of his handicap, may hold false hopes for full recovery. This attitude prevents the child from facing his special situation realistically.

False sympathy and pity may cover hostility of which the parent is unaware or ashamed and the attitude of neighbors and friends often copies that of the parents who underneath reject the child. The intuition of children is frequently able to detect the falsity of such attitudes.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — The "Peace, Prosperity, Progress" slogan that the Republicans adopted this year—and the Democrats were defeated on in 1920—is being twisted into many variations. In a pool of newspaper editors on the principal issues of the 1956 campaign, these adaptations were listed:

"Peace, Prosperity and Leave Well Enough Alone" — Marion, Ill., Daily Republican.

"Prosperity, Segregation, Peace"—Alexandria, La., Town Talk.

"Peace, Prosperity and States' Rights" — Suffolk, Va., News-Herald.

"Farm Income, Peace, Prosperity" — Mount Vernon, O., News.

"Peace, Farm Program, Inflation"—Coshocton, O., Tribune.

"Peace, Prosperity and the Middle of the Road"—Waukegan, Ill., News-Sun.

"Peace, Prosperity and Honesty in Government at Washington"—Sterling, Ill., Gazette.

"Peace, Prosperity, Foreign Policy"—Maryville, Mo., Forum.

"Peace, Prosperity, Foreign Aid"—Tiffin, O., Advertiser-Tribune.

"Peace, Prosperity, Free Enterprise" — Independence, Kans., Daily Reporter.

"Peace, Prosperity and Eisenhower's Health"—Milford, Mass., News.

"Peace, Prosperity, Nixon" — Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker News.

"Peace, Prosperity and Lack of Fundamental Differences Between the Two Major Parties"—Newburgh, N. Y., News.

PERHAPS the queerest twist in campaign oratory this year has been the Republican effort to blame the Democrats for the great depression of the 1930's. Heretofore it has always been the Democrats who blamed the mistakes of Republican administrations in the 1920's for the depression.

The revised Republican version of this, as exemplified by ex-Gov. Tom Dewey of New York, is that there was a world-wide depression in 1929 and 1930, with which the GOP had nothing to do.

Then in 1933 the Democrats took over. They worked six years and still couldn't put the country back on its feet. They had to get the country into World War 2 to restore prosperity.

ONE OF THE differences between Republican millionaires and Democratic millionaires seems to be that the GOP rich men give big money to their party but don't go to their national conventions. The Democrats' rich men go to their party conventions but don't contribute much money for its campaigns.

Republicans had a lot of fun at first, claiming that there were 300 millionaires at the Democratic convention in Chicago. Later they cut the figure to 130. On a showdown, they were able to come up with the names of fewer than 30.

The count of rich Democratic angels can be run up to 50 by reference to the membership list of the National Business Advisory Council for Stevenson.

But this is dwarfed by the list of 160 big corporation executives who reported gifts of $500 or more to the GOP in 1952. This list was given to the Senate Campaign Expenditures Investigating Committee by Alexander Heard of University of North Carolina. He listed only eight Democrats who gave that much money to their party in 1952.

A check of the Republican National Convention roster shows that only two of Heard's 160 GOP angels were at its San Francisco convention. They were Henry Ford and Lammot du Pont Copeland.

There were, however, a few other easily identifiable millionaires present at the San Francisco convention. There were the seven cabinet members thought to be in this class. Also, Nelson Rockefeller, Charles R. Hook, John Hay Whitney, Eleuthere, Francis and Frank du Pont.

THE STATES' RIGHTS, third party movement supporting independent electors for T. Coleman Andrews and Thomas H. Werdel for president and vice-president is now on the ballot in 14 states with a total of 154 electoral votes. There may be additional write-in votes in the other 34 states, but under most state laws they won't be counted.

The most the States' Rights party hopes to do this year is run up a sizable protest vote against both major parties. Political experts don't give the third party a chance of carrying even one state. And even if it won all 14 states in which its electors are on the ballot, it wouldn't have much chance of throwing the election into the House of Representatives, which is its great ambition.

REPUBLICAN leader Joe Martin committed the most famous slip of the tongue in this campaign at a hundred-dollar-a plate testimonial dinner given in his honor at the Statler Hotel in Washington. The affair was held the same night that President Eisenhower made his speech at Madison Square Garden in New York. A big-screen live telecast of the President's speech was brought to the Martin dinner. Introducing this event, Rep. Martin said, "You will now see our great President in his Madison Avenue appearance."

Democratic Sniping Blamed For U. S. Position in Crisis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Why did the British and French governments decide to issue an ultimatum to Egypt and Israel and threaten to occupy the Suez Canal without consulting the United States government?

This question can be answered in only one way—it was due to the Presidential campaign in America.

The British and French have felt for several weeks now that the hands of the United States were tied—that, if the President acted vigorously in the Suez dispute, Adlai Stevenson would brand Mr. Eisenhower as a man bent on war instead of peace.

Valiant efforts were made several weeks ago by the President to try to persuade Mr. Stevenson to keep the Middle East crisis out of the campaign here, but the Democratic Presidential and Vice-Presidential nominees have ignored his plea.

The British and French have wanted from the outset to reoccupy the Canal zone and teach Dictator Nasser a lesson. They had ample provocation. He had violated the 1888 treaty and seized the canal. Likewise, he subsequently refused every plan that might lead to a peaceful settlement.

So the British and French felt they had reached the end of their efforts at moral suasion. Whether Israel chose an opportune moment to offset the formation of an Egypt-Jordan-Syrian military command which was organized to threaten her, or whether London and Paris hesitated previously only because Soviet Russia was checkmating any United Nations action, the fact remains that the British and French decided the time had come to match force with force.

Under such circumstances, to have notified the President in advance would have brought forth a negative action. He would, of course, have had to oppose the proposal. This would have meant prolonged diplomatic discussion and delay for England and France, impairing their influence in the Middle East.

Not 'Collusion'

They felt they had to strike while the iron was hot. And in this case the timing was related to the favorable military situation built up by the armed forces of the Israel Government. Stories are current that there was "collusion" and that the plan for an Israel "invasion" of Egypt was hatched in order to bring about a situation that would permit France and Britain to intervene. It isn't necessary to call it "collusion." It could be called "coincidence," and the result would be the same.

Egypt was threatening Israel, and the little republic had been suffering from the arbitrary and illegal blockade of her ships by Egypt. Concurrently, there was the flare-up in eastern Europe, which became suddenly a means of tying Russia's hands against active intervention in the Middle East. With the Soviet threat eliminated or neutralized, Israel could go ahead, and so could the British and French.

Relations Not Strained

So far as the United States is concerned, it is an exaggeration to say relations with Britain and France now are "strained." American officials, of course, are indignant and annoyed. But the real meddlers are Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, who, by their sniping tactics since last August, have put partisan politics above all else and created in international affairs an impossible situation for the President and our allies.

The simple process for solving the Suez problem was available last summer. Had there been no exploitation of this issue in the political campaign here, the dispute could have been carried to the United Nations, which, because of the Soviet veto, would have been unable to act. Then an alliance of powers, including the United States, could have held Nasser accountable for violating the treaty and ordered him to withdraw from his occupation of the canal until such time as he agreed to a system of international control.

Alliance in Control

But the alliance would then have taken possession of and held the canal while the negotiations were under way instead of begging for Nasser's agreement while the canal remained in his hands. It wouldn't have meant war, because such a strong group of allies would have been interposed as to make resistance by Egypt useless.

If the foregoing plan were not deemed acceptable to all the allies, the alternative would have been a boycott of the canal, with America helping to finance new tankers and losses due to sending the ships around the Cape of Good Hope. America suggested this but the British didn't like the idea, as it seemed expensive to them and still didn't eliminate Nasser's illegal seizure of the canal.

But no plan had a remote chance of hearty support by the United States if politicians were going to use the occasion for their partisan purposes.

The American system of government, which doesn't permit a postponement of the Presidential campaign and requires that it be held no matter what crisis prevails at the time is bound sooner or later to cause serious injury. But it might also be said that the selfishness of American politicians who will play politics with the nation's safety and with its international influence for peace is something that can only be remedied by an overwhelming repudiation of such tactics at the polls.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, Oct. 31—Mrs. Helen Borden Stevenson, the wife who bore three sons to Adlai Stevenson, divorced him after his election to be governor of Illinois. She had intended to sue for a divorce before that election, but Adlai's political managers persuaded her to wait. She obliged and she subscribes to common report that during his term Adlai seldom went to the statutory office of the governor but did much of his work in the mansion. She agrees with popular report that he responds to the influence of his sister, Mrs. Ernest Ives, a lady of determined character and mien.

Mrs. S. wrote a brochure on life with Adlai, intended to be published before this year's election. However, it may never be published.

Mrs. Stevenson smiles with a broad, unintentional burlesque of the subtle expression of Mona Lisa when she discusses phases of her former husband's "personality." She still thinks his election would be a mistake. On the point of his personal qualification she wrote a sort of comic valentine, published in 1952, as follows: "When a man is unable to govern, his wife, his mother, his nurse: He takes a particular pleasure, in running the universe."

Mrs. Stevenson is a fourth-generation Chicagoan. She now runs an art center under a "foundation" which currently is exhibiting indescribable objects as Finnish sculpture. God in His mercy gave the civic fathers of Chicago the compassion to grant a bar license to this art center. Thus the juice of the corn, the currant and the juniper gently contrive to soften the shock.

After she kept her word to hold a still tongue and Adlai was elected Governor, Mrs. Stevenson moved to their personal home at Libertyville, Ill. That was the end of the trail for them. They have three sons, Adlai, 26; Borden, 24 and John Fell Stevenson, 20. She thought Adlai imposed on them by having his picture taken with them in this campaign.

Young Adlai had to retire from the campaign because he is about to become a father. Borden is sticking it out. John Fell is still plugging along to Harvard, the family manger where the other two boys got spinached for the battle of life. Mrs. Stevenson thinks Adlai is the only witty man who has occurred in national politics since, perhaps, Lincoln. Bob Moses, of New York, is a wit, but he is also a confirmed also-ran in competive politics. That sets him back in the rummage counters with Will Rogers.

In plenty of time before this year's Democratic convention, Harry Truman asked a friend in Chicago to tell him more about Adlai. The friend described as well as he could Stevenson's social reputation.

It was after this that Truman blasted Stevenson as a fellow with no belly for a fight. Since the convention he has supported the party and the platform but not Stevenson, personally.

Survivors of War Dead Cautioned

Edward J. McLaughlin, Director, New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs, today cautioned all New York state widows, guardians of children and dependent parents of veterans who died before Jan. 1, 1957 as a result of service in the Armed Forces regarding survivors benefits under the recently enacted Survivor Benefits Act, Public Law 881.

Mr. McLaughlin stated, "that all beneficiaries now on the United States Veterans Administration Death Compensation rolls will receive with their October checks which are due on November 1, 1956, an application form for these survivors to send to the Veterans Administration if they wish to elect benefits under the new Law.

Cautions Against Haste

"It would be disastrous for a widow, orphan or dependent parent to make an ill-advised or hasty choice and then lose all or part of their death compensation or insurance if they complete and file the application without counseling or advice. This can happen and all beneficiaries should remember once a choice is made, it cannot be revoked."

Mr. McLaughlin stated, "beneficiaries have until July 1, 1957 to make up their minds to change to the new law and have their increased payments, if any, date back to January 1, 1957." Mr. McLaughlin further stated, "that if any beneficiary now being paid death benefits does not go under the new law, there will be no change in the amount of their checks. If such beneficiary decides to change to the new law, he or she may do so at any time, even after July 1, 1957."

Director McLaughlin urges all beneficiaries residing in New York State affected by the new Survivors Benefits Act, (P. L. 881) to visit or telephone any office of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs or their local county or city veterans service agency, for counseling or advice.

CP Mothers to Hear Dr. Bibby on Monday

A meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Mother's Club will be held Monday, Nov. 5, at 8 p. m. at the Palsy Center, 400 Broadway.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Henry Bibby whose topic will be "How Clinics Originated."

The public, as well as all members, are invited to attend.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Talks Continue For Bus Terms

Cleveland, Nov. 1 (AP)—Work stoppages disrupted Eastern Greyhound bus service in some sections of the northeastern quarter of the nation today as contract negotiations continued.

A company spokesman said the stoppages were unauthorized. He said no official strike notice had been given by the Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes Union, but that in some areas drivers were unloading their passengers at terminals and awaiting news of the negotiations before continuing their runs. Union officials could not be reached immediately.

He said service was reported normal at Buffalo and Washington, D. C., but that no buses had left Cleveland since 1 a. m. He had not received reports from other areas.

Company and Union representatives, still in session after talking past a midnight strike deadline, indicated there were prospects of a settlement.

The company spokesman said he could not estimate the number idled by the scattered work stoppages. He said there was no picketing, but that the idle employes were "hanging around" the terminals.

An all-out strike would idle some 4,000 persons.

Main issues to be settled are the union's demand for a 30-cent hourly pay boost spread over two years, six paid holidays, increased minimum guarantees and pay for waiting and delay time.

The current scale for hourly rated employes is from $1.56 to $2.51.

Rheumatic Fever Program Accepted By Area Schools

The Kingston city school board and the school boards of Port Ewen, Onteora and Lake Katrine have accepted the offer by the Heart Chapter of the Ulster County TB & Health Association to include all children of school age in Ulster county in the rheumatic fever control program. Dr. Harold L. Rakov, chairman of the Rheumatic Fever Committee said: "this program extension was recommended after a brief pilot program in four schools, because of the increasing number of requests from parents and physicians for children in need of the prophylaxis treatment."

This program, sponsored by the Ulster County Heart Chapter is pattened after ones being carried on in more than thirty other counties in New York state—a few of these have been in existence for as long as five years.

Objectives Listed

Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary, in discussing the program said, "the objectives of this program are:

1. To help prevent recurrences of rheumatic fever in children who have had the disease.
2. To demonstrate the value of a preventive program for rheumatic fever.
3. To arouse people through education to recognize the need for prompt and thorough medical attention—for infections—in particular those which may lead to rheumatic fever."

The program was opened in June 1956 in schools in Kerhonkson, Highland, Wallkill and MJM in Kingston. Ten children enrolled then and continued to receive the penicillin during the summer. In September, the number increased to 22 in these four schools.

Consent Necessary

All school administrators have been advised that upon request and approval of each school board, children who have had rheumatic fever may then be enrolled upon the individual authorization of the child's parent and private physician.

Members of the rheumatic fever committee are: Dr. Harold L. Rakov, Dr. Elbert F. MacFadden, Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, Mr. Hubert W. Perkins, Mrs. Anna M. Young, RN, Mr. S. James Matthews, Mr. Clarence A. Johnson, Mr. Julius L. Hoyt and Dr. Dudley Hargrave.

Miss Murphy said, "in planning for this project in Ulster county, this committee studied program outlines and statistics compiled from experiences in other counties in New York state having such services."

The program outline for Ulster county was developed with the guidance of the medical advisory board of the Ulster County Heart Chapter, and was approved by the Ulster County Medical Society.

Parents of children who have a history of rheumatic fever who wish information about this service, may call the Heart Chapter at 74 John street.

156th FA Gets 'Superior' Rating After Inspection

Elements of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion stationed in Kingston and Poughkeepsie have been rated "superior" after a recent two-day inspection, it was announced today by Lt. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer.

The rating was achieved after the units had been inspected by Col. Norman J. Carey Jr., assigned to the staff of the commanding general, New York National Guard.

Col. Carey praised the battalion commander and subordinate unit commanders for "the superior manner in which administrative records, funds and building maintenance are kept." The battalion's annual state inspection is required by military law.

Awards to Units

The records of each battery were rated superior and certificates from the commanding general will be awarded each unit as a matter of record, Col. Harkin said. He noted that "of the 500 and some National Guard units in the state very few have been able to attain a superior rating."

Officers and men of the 156th will entruck for the United States Military Academy, West Point, early Sunday morning and will spend a full day on the rifle ranges for marksmanship training and small arms qualifications.

To Direct School

Second Corps Artillery Headquarters has designated Col. Harkin to organize and direct a two-day non commissioned officers school. Selected non commissioned officers from the 170th Field Artillery, Newburgh and Middletown, together with selected non commissioned officers from the 156th will attend.

The school will be held in the State Armory, Manor avenue, Dec. 1 and 2 to develop leadership qualities in key non commissioned officers. Five non commissioned officers from each battery-sized unit will be ordered to the two-day course, Col. Harkin said.

Reunion in Texas

El Paso, Tex. (AP)—No one was particularly disturbed when a quarter-mile caravan of military and scientific experts was held up. The delay came when Maj. Gen. Leif A. Sverdlup spotted his old sergeant Serrano, from the days of the World War 2 attack on Manila. The pair caused an unscheduled time delay for the big wigs by holding a reunion right on the spot.

Po'keepsie Cab Strike Settled

Poughkeepsie taxi service, tied up for a week by a strike of 125 drivers for six companies, was settled Wednesday, it was learned today.

Terms of the settlement gave union cab drivers a $5 per week increase in guaranteed pay and also increased the percentage of the driver's share in receipts of the company by five per cent up to the first $100 of the receipts each, the Cab Companies and Drivers' Union reported.

Joseph Worona, attorney for five of the six union affiliated cab companies, said the settlement assured each driver 45 per cent, instead of 40 per cent, of the first $100 received by the companies through the driver each week.

On receipts above $100, the percentage of sharing to the driver will be 40 per cent. The minimum pay to the driver each week is $45, instead of $40 under the old contract, Mr. Worona said. The new rates apply to the permanent drivers who work a 60-hour week.

Today's TV Story...

SMOKE SCREEN

Any veterans in the audience today? If so, you know what a smoke screen is for. It's something to hide behind.

The Ulster County Assemblyman is apparently familiar with military tactics. He has been running his campaign from behind a smoke screen of half-truths and partisan politics, shooting craps with the needs of the people. HE HAS CAREFULLY AVOIDED CONFUSING YOU WITH THE FACTS.

And who can blame him? After all, the facts — as revealed in his own official voting record — brand him as a man who has forgotten his obligations to the voters who sent him to office.

We have tried to shed some light on this election by showing you how the present Assemblyman has voted on key measures designed to benefit you. His record is a bleak one. Here are some more examples:

VOTED "NO" ON FLOOD PREVENTION PROGRAM

Localities with small watersheds have found it almost impossible to finance local flood control programs, even though the Federal government provides 50% of the funds. Yet it was the small watersheds in N. Y. State that caused the heaviest flood damage to propery, livestock, and crops last year. This bill (No. 3667) would have aided the flood control programs of localities with small watersheds by authorizing the State to pay up to half the contribution of local areas applying for Federal aid.

VOTED "NO" ON REGULATING EMPLOYEE WELFARE FUNDS

Bill No. 3807 was designed to fill a tremendous gap in our laws, by bringing all employer-sponsored and union-negotiated welfare and pension programs UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF THE STATE. This proposal was based on extensive studies of all types of such programs operated in the State of New York. ITS PURPOSE WAS TO PROTECT WORKING PEOPLE AGAINST FRAUDULENT ADMINISTRATION OF SUCH PROGRAMS.

The bill was killed in Committee by the Republican majority. They then introduced their own watered-down version which applied ONLY to funds JOINTLY ADMINISTERED by employers and employees through their unions (a small fraction). It left completely UNREGULATED those funds operated by employers alone, or unions alone. The Ulster County Assemblyman voted "NO" on an amendment which would have placed ALL types of welfare and pension plans under State supervision. The working man was denied this important protection.

MAYOR EUGENE GLUSKER ASKS YOU . . .

. . . to judge this campaign on the basis of FACTS . . . not traditional party affiliations. Vote to free yourself from the bondage of Ulster County's morally irresponsible political machine.

There are NO political strings attached to Gene Glusker. There is NO self-serving political machine behind him. His record speaks for itself. He is an able, experienced administrator—an independent businessman. He has given Ellenville clean, efficient government, run in the best interests of the people. He has EARNED your vote on November 6.

MVB Suspensions To Hit New High

Albany, Nov. 1—State Motor Vehicle Bureau is revoking or suspending driver licenses and vehicle registrations for violations and other causes at a rate which will establish a new all-time high this year.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Joseph P. Kelly reported today that the revocation-suspension total at the end of the first nine months of the year was 156,003, as against 123,453 a year ago.

Record high for a complete year was the 168,275 license actions in 1955.

Increased license penalties are being recorded under practically every heading of the Bureau's operations, according to the report.

Drunk Driving Increase

Outright revocations in nine months this year numbered 13,400 compared with 10,543 a year ago, with the heaviest single increase under the "driving while intoxicated" heading. Drunk driving revocations totalled 3,354 in the first nine months of 1956 as against 2,735 a year ago.

There were substantial increases also in revocations for speeding, up from 398 to 455; leaving the scene of accident, from 814 to 970; false statement in an application, from 618 to 1,044; illegal use of junior licences, from 131 to 244; three or more speed or reckless driving convictions in 18 months, from 1,204 to 1,355, and refusal to submit to chemical test for alcohol, from 192 to 241.

Suspensions Doubled

Both revocations and suspensions rose sharply under the Bureau's point system for dealing with repeat violators who are not subject to license action under some other provision of law. The nine months' point system revocation total for "habitual violators" was 460 as against 335 a year ago. Suspensions under the same system doubled, jumping from 1,465 last year to 2,993 in nine months.

Biggest rise in suspensions was under the safety-responsibility (financial) law. These actions in nine months jumped from 78,058 to 102,021.

Other suspensions increases included those for failure to notify the commissioner of motor vehicles of address changes, from 1,567 to 2,405; failure to appear for a hearing, from 1,935 to 4,588; physical or mental disability, from 946 to 1,007; illegal use of junior licenses, 705 to 1,073; re-examination failures, 790 to 985.

Representation by the secretary of state signalizes the importance the Eisenhower administration attaches to the general assembly meeting and the need, as President Eisenhower put it last night, to focus "the opinion of the world . . . in our quest for a just end to this tormenting problem."

HalloweenParade Viewed by 5,000 Despite Weather

Inclement weather was no deterrent to the city's Halloween celebration Wednesday evening as an estimated 5,000 persons lined Broadway to watch colorfully-costumed youngsters parade from Academy Green Park to the municipal auditorium.

The annual event, sponsored by the Recreation Department, was dampened by showers just before the line of march stepped off at 7:15 p. m. but the rain subsided long enough for the trek to the auditorium where prizes were awarded for the best costumes.

Applaud Musical Units

Observers along the line of march were generous in their applause for the musical units which led the youngsters on their night of revelry. These included the Port Ewen Cavaliers, the Port Ewen Junior Drum Corps, which made its debut, and the VFW Drum Corps.

The Cavaliers played a short concert in front of the auditorium before the costume program began.

Another well-received feature of the parade was the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Co., whose members pulled their old fashioned hose cart along the line of march. The American Legion 40 and 8 locomotive transported many more youngsters.

The Port Ewen Junior Drum Corps marched around the auditorium and received a tremendous ovation in their first public appearance.

The VFW Drum Corps marched from Broadway to the post home on Delaware avenue where they were host to a large party of member's children.

List Costume Winners

Following were the winners in the costume contest:

Most Horrible — Roger Williams, first; Orpha Vedder, second. Most Humorous—Irene Williams, first; Jim Effner and Vera Harvey tied for second. Most Patriotic—Cindy Lee DeBrosky, first; Cathy Wells, second.

Old Fashioned—Patricia Haber, first; Mary Kay Maurer, second. Most Original — Jay Maurer and Mickey Nirri tied for first. Novelty—Grace Salmi, first; Patricia Tiano and Susan Bodenweber tied for second.

Andrew J. Murphy, 3d, superintendent of recreation, noted the accent was on the younger children as several of the winners were three years old or under.

Mr. Murphy also expressed his appreciation to the police department and the traffic detail headed by Lt. Robert F. Murphy.

Little Damage Is Reported in Rural Areas of Section

State police, the sheriff's office and other enforcement officials today reported little Halloween damage by pranksters. The rain which fell most of the evening wet down fallen leaves and made it almost impossible to set the usual fires. It also dampened the spirits of the small revelers and outside the customary pranks, little serious damage was done.

A report went to state police at the Kingston station that a tree had been cut and fell across the road at Creek Locks. Investigation disclosed, troopers reported, the tree was an old one which fell of its own accord. Traffic was delayed for a time while the debris was cleared.

Ellenville and Highland troopers reported the usual "jam on door-knobs, soaped windows and overturned out-buildings," but no serious damage.

Two-Hour . . .

review of the Middle East crisis. It got under way with Eisenhower presiding, shortly after 9 a. m. (EST).

Eisenhower said the UN General Assembly — subsequently called into special session this afternoon—should be able to bring "the opinion of the world" to bear on the situation created by Israel's attack on Egypt and British-French intervention.

The President chided Britain, France and Israel but added that all had been provoked by Egyptian actions.

Eisenhower said he has no plan to call a special session of Congress. He promised to maintain close contact with congressional leaders.

Shokan

Shokan, Nov. 1—Word has been received here of the death, recently, of Thomas Matland, 87, one time Shokan resident who for many years has made his home at Sailors Snug Harbor, S. I. A daughter, Helen Duel, has a summer place at Samsonville.

Bessie DuBois and Leona LeFevre of New Paltz were callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Leland George, Kerhonkson World War 2 veteran, and family of the Kerhonkson area were callers here Sunday in the course of a trip to the mountains.

Mrs. Harry Weeks, who has been living in uptown Kingston since selling her Route 28 house to James Clemens last year, this week made her home at Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmendorf's.

Mrs. William Windrum of Kingston spent Monday afternoon with her friend, Bertha Constable. Mrs. Windrum and her husband, who died six years ago, resided near High Point on the west side of the reservoir.

Andy Buzzanca, well known Abeel street collector of antiques, was in the village center Sunday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Stock Market recovered today and by early afternoon had erased more than half of the losses it took on news of the Egyptian crisis yesterday.

Pivotal stocks advanced from fractions to around 3 points.

The rebound affected all major divisions of the list. Brokers said President Eisenhower's declaration that the United States would not become involved in the present Middle East hostilities gave new confidence to investors.

They also noted that the market was in a technical position where it was hoped further declines would meet resistance through buying orders.

The market was active and higher at the opening. Then trading slackened. Turnover swelled again as prices moved even higher.

Quits Warsaw Pact

Vienna, Nov. 1 (AP)—Premier Imre Nagy of Hungary called in the Soviet ambassador today and gave notice that Hungary was withdrawing from the Warsaw Pact, radio Budapest announced.

U. S. to Press

armed forces when necessary."

Punishment Possible

Less drastic steps could include a condemnation of Britain, France and Israel, a cease-fire call, or a request that UN members punish the three with diplomatic and economic measures.

Any action the assembly takes must be approved by two-thirds of all present and voting.

Britain and France voted against the resolution to convene the assembly, contending it was illegal. Australia and Belgium abstained. The United States and the Soviet Union were among those casting favorable votes, further emphasizing the grave split in the Western Alliance.

U. S. Point First

Rudecindo Ortega, chief of Chile's delegation who was slated to preside over the special session, said in a statement to the press that the assembly's first step will be to give "ample moral support" to the U. S. cease-fire resolution which Britain and France vetoed in the Security Council.

British and French spokesmen would not say whether their delegations would boycott the special assembly session, as France did the last regular assembly when it took up the Algerian question over her protests.

The emergency session is the first ever called under the assembly's so-called "united for peace" resolution of Nov. 3, 1950. The United States got that resolution adopted in the Korean war days to enable the UN to act against aggression despite the Soviet veto in the Security Council. The Soviet bloc cast the only five votes against it, and Britain and France were for it.

Grave Situation

The council call for the session said "a grave situation has been created by action undertaken against Egypt" and the council had ben unable to act because of the British and French vetoes.

The U. S. resolution which they vetoed now will become a proposal for action by the assembly.

The U. S. resolution which they vetoed now will become a proposal for action by the assembly. It calls upon Israel and Egypt (1) to cease fire at once; (2) upon Israel to withdraw its armed forces from Egypt; (3) upon all UN members to withhold military, economic and financial aid from Israel until she pulls back, and (4) on all UN members to refrain from the threat or use of force in the Middle East.

The latter aimed squarely at Britain and France.

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told the council this resolution was "perfectly adequate to meet all the aspects of the situation" being put before the assembly.

Serious UN Crisis

Yugoslav delegate Joza Brilej, introducing the proposal for an extraordinary assembly session, told the council, "what is taking place is a joint aggression of Israel, France and Great Britain against Egypt." He said this meant the most serious crisis the UN yet had seen.

Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain and Louis De Guirangaud of France said their countries' forces would occupy the canal zone only temporarily to safeguard the vital interests of canal users. Dixon added that they would see that the Israeli forces withdrew from Egypt "as soon as possible."

At 9:45 p. m., a police report said youngsters were lowering a dummy from the Broadway underpass bridge, and the incident had almost caused an accident. They went away and left the dummy hanging from the bridge and it was taken to police headquarters.

A report at 12:28 a. m., today said a pumpkin had been tossed from the Washington avenue viaduct and broke a plate glass window at 1 Murphy street. At 8:40 p. m., a stone was reported thrown through a side window at 31 St. James street, and at 12:05 a. m., a pumpkin was reported thrown through a window at 531 Delaware avenue. The bottom of a door was reported broken at 59 Derrenbacher street.

The false alarm was sounded from Box 5632, Harding avenue and Savoy street at 7:45 p. m., and a call for firemen at 8:33 p. m., was for a fire which youngsters somehow got started in wet leaves near 11 Cottage Row. Paint was reported thrown on the house at that address.

A group of youngsters was brought to police headquarters after a report at 10:10 p. m., that firecrackers were being shot off at O'Neil street and South Manor avenue. Firecrackers and candles were taken from them and they were sent home with a warning to stay off the streets for the rest of the night.

Paint was reported thrown on a car at 118 Hone street, and this morning Samuel Basch, of 19 Spring street, notified police that green paint had been scattered over the front of his car.

A log was placed in the road on Greenkill avenue, lawn furniture was moved on Brewster street, lanterns were reported moved from a sidewalk repair project on Linderman avenue, but were brought back in place, and Stuart Bartholomew, of Esopus notified police at 10:09 p. m., that side-view mirrors were taken from his car.

A fence was reported pulled down on the sidewalk near 379 Hasbrouck avenue, and the temporary fence near the Home Seekers Savings and Loan building on Fair street was reported torn down.

A report at 12:30 a. m., said lights were out on the Washington avenue viaduct and a few minutes later an arc light was reported broken on Delaware avenue below Hasbrouck Park.

Arrested after a reported street fight on Pine Grove avenue near Summer street at 11:10 p. m., were Carl E. Richter, 21, of 351 Broadway, and James J. Uhl, 18, of East Chester street extension. They were picked up by officers Gilbert Gray and William Slover and charged with disorderly conduct.

Richter was fined $20 by City Judge Raymond J. Mino today and the charge against Uhl was dismissed. Richter, it was indicated had started the fight.

Three civil defense radio cars assisted police in patrol work during the night and the patrolling of fire alarm boxes by members of the Kingston Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association prevented a wave of false alarms.

Good Weather Is Aid to Bridge Opening Schedule

Sufficient progress has been made within the past two weeks on the pouring of concrete on the deck of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge to guarantee the opening of the span before the end of this year, if the weather ahead is sufficiently favorable, it was indicated today.

As of yesterday a 1,600-foot length of the deck was unpaved. Today's schedule called for the pouring of 124 feet.

The remaining area can be paved in time, if workmen are favored with sufficient mild weather and experience no hampering construction delays, an engineer said. The date aimed at for the opening, as of now, is Dec. 15.

Negro Still Missing

Wildwood, Fla., Nov. 1 (AP)—A white man was held in jail without bond today on a charge of kidnaping Jesse Woods, Negro farm laborer who is still missing after four days. Sheriff M. H. Bowman of Sumter county said a lake near here would be dragged in the hunt for the 39-year-old man. Police decreed a 10 p. m. curfew on children—age limit not specified—in this small railroad town where Woods was taken from a jail cell early Sunday.

B-52 Story Told

New York (AP)—The B-52, the Air Force's inter-continental jet bomber, was on the brink of cancellation many times during the eight years it took to design and perfect it. The story of the B-52 is told in "Vision," a new book on aviation by Harold Mansfield. He claims it was only after the Korean War pointed up the need for a long range bomber with speed that the Air Force approved quantity production of the plane.

The Mature Parent

Child's Excessive Respect As Shaky as Teen Disrespect

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Half a block from a gas station, Cliff's father discovered its attendant had withheld 30 cents from his change. Preparing to go back and get it, he swung his car around, exclaiming, "That kid back there has short-changed me again!"

His 16-year-old son gave him no sympathy. On the contrary, Cliff suggested that his father had miscounted the money. Nor did he alter his critical attitude when it was proved that his father had been short-changed. Cliff maintained a cold detachment which plainly declared that he considered his father, not the attendant, to be at fault.

On the way home Cliff's disapproval, though wordless, became so aggressive that his harassed father blew up out of hurt at the boy's unreasonableness.

Sometimes the adolescent's need to find fault with us makes him into an awfully tiresome person

Psychologists explain it is part of his preparation for mating. They say that in adolescence Cliff has to withdraw the admiration he's given his parents as a child in order to transfer it to his "agemate"—the girl he'll marry.

This information is not too useful. Though it's intriguing to know why somebody gives us a slap in the face, it is more useful to know why we were around to receive it. By the same principle it's more profitable to know why we let adolescent criticism hurt us than to analyze adolescent motives for indulging it.

It hurts us because we overvalued the admiration our adolescent gave us as a child.

The admiration was not love. Actually, is was just the satisfaction all dependent people display when they believe themselves well cared for having heard it. For it's true.

Our fond belief that our little boys and girls love us is what makes their adolescent criticism so hard to take. When Cliff begins to withdraw his childish and unrealistic admiration from us, we moan and groan as though we were losing some priceless gift.

The healing truth is that a child's excessive respect for us is as unreliable as the adolescent's excessive disrespect. One thinks we're wonderful because thinking so fills his need; the other thinks we're terrible because this idea fills his need. To neither of them are our needs of much concern.

It is wise indeed to become used to the idea that love's knowledge and acceptance of us as we are is something we get from grownups.

Fiery Praise

Racine, Wis. (AP)—James Isbell, was fined $100 for putting out too many fires in his company's beautiful ultra-modern tower. Isbell told the judge he liked the praise he received from his boss and his fellow employes when he put out a blaze that started accidentally, so he set a few fires of his own and extinguished them in hopes of winning more attention.

DRY BOAT, DRY LAKE—The pleasure boat "Bonnie Barge" lies high, dry and helpless at White Rock Lake near Dallas, Tex. Where once stood 12 feet of water, now only cracked and parched earth remain. White Rock, normally a main source of Dallas' drinking water, is at an all-time low due to extreme drought.

New Fire Trucks Pass Inspection

Woodstock, Nov. 1—Last Friday, the two new Woodstock fire trucks were put through their trials by the Fire Underwriters, at the reservoir on the Sawkill road. William Marks, of Middletown, tested the engines for the Fire Underwriters. Assistant Chief Eric Wiltz and Chester Wolven of Fire Company No. 1, and Fire Chief George Haythorne, were present for the tests, which the trucks passed with admirable performance.

Both engines were required to pump 750 gallons per minute for two hours at 150 pounds pressure. Then they were taken to 200 pounds pressure for an hour.

The 1950 Ford fire truck has been sent to Wittenberg where it was installed Sunday.

The fire commissioners will meet on Friday, to decide the fate of the old Sanford engine.

Robert Smith, chief engineer for the company, is now working on the 1937 Ford fire truck to be used as an emergency vehicle. The water capacity will be changed from 250 gallons to 500 gallons and the repairs are being made to the pump. It will also carry a portable electric system and lights formerly carried by the other fire engines.

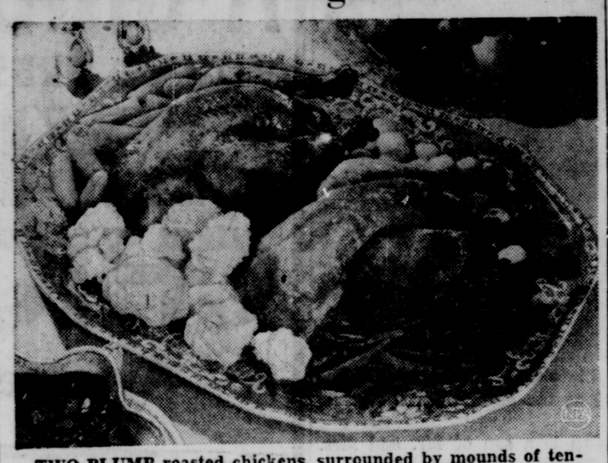
AMERICAN MENU

Pair of Tender Chickens Makes Feast Distinguished



TWO PLUMP roasted chickens, surrounded by mounds of tender vegetables, give dramatic touch to Thanksgiving dinner.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Here's the story of an old-fashioned Rochester, N. Y., Thanksgiving dinner given a modern streamlined technique. We learned about it from Dorothy Manson Maddox, our favorite hostess.

"In my grandmother's house we often had chicken for Thanksgiving," she recalls. "The biggist, plumpest, most tender bird was roasted to a golden turn. The chicken came to the table on a huge Minton platter surrounded with all the buttery vegetables in colorful mounds—tiny balls of potatoes and carrots, whole string beans and cauliflower."

But today, a streamlined version of her grandmother's famous dinner uses instead of the 9-pound hen, two smaller birds ready for the oven.

Thanksgiving Chicken

Two 4 to 5-pound roasting chickens, ready to cook, 2 packages ready-mix stuffing, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup seedless raisins, butter or margarine.

Wash and thoroughly dry chickens. Prepare stuffing. Add nuts and raisins and lightly stuff cavity. Truss and place breast side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Brush chickens with butter and bake in 325 degrees F. oven for 2 hours or until chickens are brown and tender. Brush chickens with butter several times during baking.

Mushroom Giblet Gravy

One quart water, giblets and necks, 6-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms, ½ cup flour, 1 cup cold water, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ cup fat, 2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet.

Place water, giblets and neck in saucepan. Cover and bring to boil. Cook slowly until tender, remove livers when done. Strain off broth, then return to saucepan, adding more water to make 3 cups if necessary. Mince giblets and meat from neck. Add broth and contents of can of mushrooms. Place over heat. Combine flour, water and salt by shaking in a covered container until smooth. Add flour mixture gradually to hot broth. Bring to boil, stirring constantly.

When chickens are done remove to platter to keep warm. Remove trussing strings. Drain fat from roasting pan, then return ½ cup of it. Add the thickened giblet sauce and kitchen bouquet. Bring to boil again, stirring until drippings are dissolved. Serve immediately with roasted chicken.

THANKSGIVING DINNER: Clear chicken bouillon with watercress, two roasted 4-5-pound chickens on large platter, surrounded by potato balls, tiny carrots, green beans and cauliflower, mushroom giblet gravy, assorted rolls, butter or margarine, hearts of lettuce, blue cheese dressing, cranberry-apple pie, cheese, nuts, raisins, coffee, tea, milk.

Water is so scarce on Mars that its white polar caps are thought by astronomers to be hoarfrost only a few inches thick.

The report said September employment in civilian agencies was 1,208,661, down 4,730 from August. Civilian employes of the Defense Department numbered 1,180,193, down 6,920, it said.

Two Mayors Will Address Rally in New Paltz Friday

Two Democratic mayors, Samuel Stratton of Schenectady and John Ryan of Newburgh, will give the principal speeches at the Democratic rally for Stevenson-Kefauver-Wagner in New Paltz, Friday.

The event will be held in New Paltz Municipal building, beginning at 8 p. m. Local political leaders predict a record turnout, with the expectation of many visitors from Kingston, Ellenville, Modena, Rosendale, Lloyd and other nearby towns.

Democratic county and congressional district candidates will be introduced. They include Thomas Plunket, Kingston, for Surrogate; Arthur Withall, Rifton, for Sheriff; Vincent di Gennaro, Poughkeepsie, for Congress and Eugene Glusker, Ellenville, for State Senate.

Mayor Stratton, an experienced TV news commentator, is the first Democrat to win the mayoralty election in Schenectady in many years.

The group will be addressed also by young Democrats, Kitty Zimmerman and Herbert Lyons Jr., high school and college students.

Sponsored by the Democratic club of New Paltz, the rally will be guided by Arthur Jorgensen, chairman of the club and master of ceremonies of the evening.

Robert Swain is general chairman of the rally, assisted by William Daley, in charge of decorations; Al Rohe, arrangements; Mrs. Margaret Glancy, refreshments and Leon Karpel, sound.

Says Story Was Hoax

Cleveland, Nov. 1 (AP)—Refusing to say why she did it, a 19-year-old girl admitted yesterday she made up a story which spurred Assistant Prosecutor Saul S. The girl, Miss Margaret Jackson of Cleveland, was taken back to a Wheeling, W. Va., religious school where she has been living.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

SMALL BUSINESS AND BIG TAXES

The politicians are weeping over the plight of small business as the victim of big business.

Listen, neighbor, the real enemy of small business is Big Government and Big Taxes.

MR. HUTTON

Big business buys from small business. Big Government "takes" from small business. Big business is often the chief market for small business, sometimes the only one. Big businesses, that is, a railroad or auto factory, buy from thousands of small businesses.

Everything ties together. When you strike a match, you create employment in a dozen States.

As Ben Fairless says:

"The American industrial machine is a unit like an automobile, made of big parts and little parts. * * * All are fitted together. You may think it would be fun to sort them all into neat piles according to size to please the statisticians (and politicians).

"You could even pass a law declaring all parts must be the same size; the theorists would be delighted, but when you get through, your automobile won't run—and neither will American industry."

All corporation profits over $25,000 are taxed 52%. But a big business, long established, can stand the gaff better than a small one, or a new business. It has had time to build up reserves against stormy weather.

Moreover, a tax that takes most of the profits, forces the consolidation of two or more small businesses—which makes big business.

Bishops Clothing Collection Is Set November 18 to 25

His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman today announced the participation of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York, through its 394 parishes, in the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Collection sponsored by the Catholic bishops of the United States for the needy overseas. The Cardinal appointed the Very Rev. Msgr. John F. McCarthy as archdiocesan director for the appeal which will be conducted Nov. 18 through 5.

"Destitute people in 41 countries," Msgr. McCarthy said, "will benefit from the collection. While the focus of great need is shifting away from Europe with the exception of the countries in the south, millions of refugees, expelees and native poor in the Near and Far East, Africa and South America literally live in rags. This is primarily because their entire earnings, if any, must be spent for the food to actually preserve life."

Hungary to Benefit

Msgr. McCarthy also made known that among the countries to benefit from the appeal will be Hungary where Catholic Relief Services, the overseas arm of the Catholic bishops, is already sending in supplies of blood plasma, vitamins sulphur drugs and other medicinals. Shipments of these supplies will continue, he said, and food and clothing will be added as soon as conditions permit.

Msgr. McCarthy points out that the campaign in the New York archdiocese will be not only for used clothing but also for money to purchase food and medical supplies. One of the great needs this year, he says, is for blankets and covers of all kinds.

Last year the New York archdiocese contributed 734,426 pounds of clothing to the national campaign.

Voters Have $600 Million Deal To Decide on Roads and Housing

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP) — In the "Isolation Booth" Nov. 6, each New York voter will be asked a two-part, 600-million-dollar question.

The first part (Proposition 1): Shall the state spend 500 million dollars for highway construction?

The second (Proposition 2): Shall 100 million be authorized to stimulate construction of middle-income housing?

The "correct" answer will depend on how the majority of an expected seven million voters feel on the questions.

Last November, the voters rejected a proposal for a 750-million-dollar bond issue for roads. Tied to the proposal was a gas-tax increase. No gas-tax increase is proposed now, and there has been little controversy over the proposition.

Housing Draws Fire

The housing proposition, however, has drawn strong objections from the citizens public expenditure survey, a taxpayers organization. That group says local governments will lose "millions of dollars" and will seek compensation through new taxes.

The highway proposal has bipartisan support. Democratic Gov. Harriman and the legislature's Republican majority leaders say the money is needed urgently to put New York's roads in shape.

The 1955 road plan ran aground on two reefs, apparently. One was the fact that the program was tied to a 50 per cent increase in motor fuel taxes. Second, there was no guarantee that the added taxes would be used solely for highways.

No Decision, They Say

Harriman and the GOP leaders—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck and Senate Leader Walter J. Mahoney—say there has been no decision or any agreement on any motor fuel tax boost this time.

All say that, if the legislature decides to increase the tax, the revenue should be earmarked for highways.

If gasoline taxes are boosted, legislative leaders are expected to propose earmarking them by law alone. This could touch off a new battle with the automobile group, which says it won't oppose any "needed" tax boosts but still favors constitutional earmarking.

Adoption of the vast federal highway program, some people say, makes the state financing plan unnecessary.

Not so, says Harriman. The federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of work on the so-called interstate system, but these roads—already in good shape,—make up less than 10 per cent of the state's highway mileage.

Harriman Urges Bond

On other roads, the nation and state go fifty-fifty and Harriman says the bond money is needed for the state's share.

Under the housing proposition, the 100 million dollars would be lent at low interest to private companies for construction of middle-income dwellings.

Under the limited-profit statute, families making up to $12,000 a year could qualify for these. Monthly rents would run about $20 per room.

Harriman estimates that the money would provide for 4,250 apartments.

Builders could be granted local tax exemptions up to 50 per cent of the value of the structures. This feature has drawn the fire of the Citizens Public Expenditures Survey.

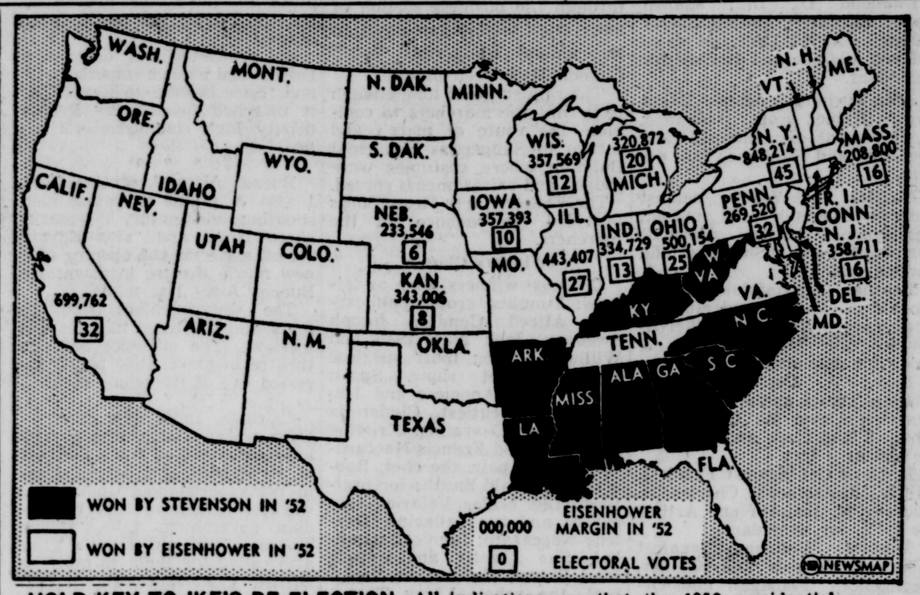
Point to Loss

The group says that local governments would lose millions through the tax exemptions. The amount of tax from which builders are exempted must be added to the bills of other taxpayers, the organization says.

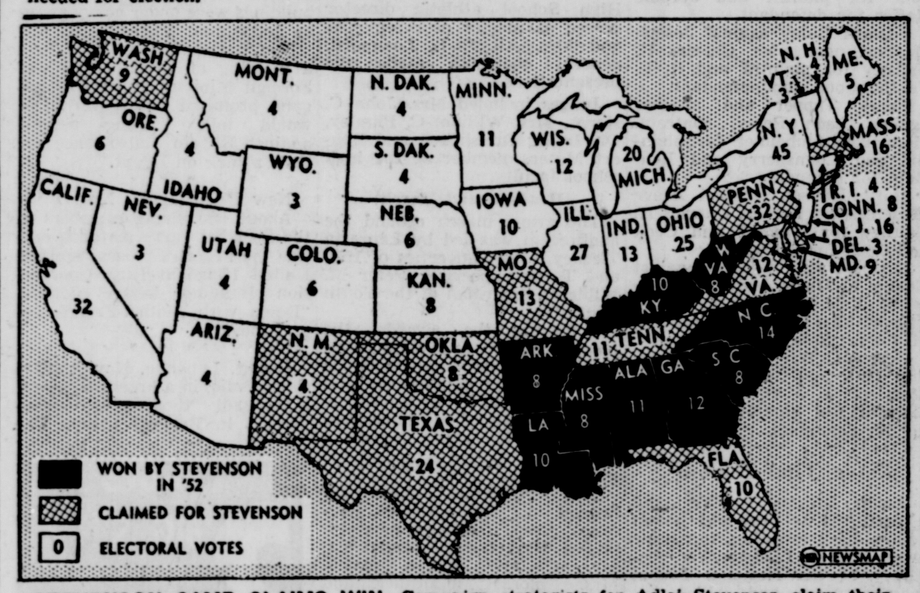
Harriman had recommended an outlay of 200 million dollars to meet a flood of loan applications that he said totalled more than 350 million dollars.

The GOP-sponsored legislation cutting the amount in half. Sen. MacNeil Mitchell, Manhattan Republican, who heads the joint legislative committee on housing, said the state could not process more than 100 million dollars worth of loans in the next year. He said additional funds could be asked as needed.

There will be no proposed Constitutional Amendments on the Nov. 6 ballot.



HOLD KEY TO IKE'S RE-ELECTION—All indications are that the 1956 presidential race will be much tighter than in 1952. Eisenhower's chances hinge on states where he piled up overwwhelming pluralities in '52. The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket is virtually certain of victory if they keep the 13 states (see Newsmap) which gave them pluralities of more than 200,000 votes in '52. These states gave Eisenhower 262 electoral votes, just four short of the total needed for election.



STEVENSON CAMP CLAIMS WIN—Campaign strategists for Adlai Stevenson claim their man is leading President Eisenhower in 21 states (see Newsmap) with 235 electoral votes. If Stevenson wins these states and California he will have 267 electoral votes, one more than the necessary majority. Stevenson carried nine of these states, all in the south, in 1952.

Italy's Wartime Leader Is Dead

Grazzano Badoglio, Italy, Nov. 1 (AP)—Thousands of Italian war veterans assembled in this north Italian village to pay homage to Marshal Pietro Badoglio, 85, their wartime leader, who died early today.

The late marshal's relatives have come here from Rome and Milan to decide on arrangements for the funeral, which is to be carried out at state expense and with militay honors.

The old soldier, who rode in triumph into Addis Ababa in 1936 and who was chosen by the late King Vittorio Emmanuele III to replace the dictator Mussolini in 1943, had long been retired from public life. He left his home in Rome last August to return to his native village—Grazzano Badoglio. It had been named Grazzano D'Asti but was renamed in his honor.

Badoglio died of an asthmatic heart attack.

Born Sept. 28, 1871, he began the career that carried him to the highest political and military honors as a staff officer with a war college background. He had specialized in artillery and had become known as a historian of artillery when he was only 19 and a 2nd lieutenant.

Regards Passage Of Road Bond Issue Imperative

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—The chairman of the Diefendorf Commission said today that voter approval of a 500-million-dollar highway bond issue was "imperative."

The proposal will be on the ballot at the election Tuesday.

Charles H. Diefendorf, who heads the temporary commission on highway fiance planning, said rejection of the bond issue would prevent New York state from taking full advantage of federal aid.

He said that defeat also would prevent the state from going ahead with "other essential highway construction."

Diefendorf said New York had 1,226 miles of so-called interstate highways that will be developed under the vast federal road program.

But of the 87,000 miles of other highways, 57,000 miles are not eligible for federal aid, he said.

In the current federal fiscal year, New York will get 79 million more in federal aid. Seventy-one million will go for 588 miles of interstate routes and only 8 million will be spent on 30,000 miles of other federal-aid roads.

Harriman Claims Radioactivity Is Found Over State

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—Gov. Harriman reported today that the State Health Department had detected "a remarkably high" level of radioactivity in the atmosphere over New York on Sept. 4.

The Governor said in a statement that the Atomic Energy Commission two days later ordered the department, without explanation, to stop its radioactivity monitoring program.

He noted that the order came six days after Adlai Stevenson's controversial speech proposed an end to hydrogen-bomb tests.

Harriman linked the high-level incident of Sept. 4 to a reported explosion of a Russian H-bomb on Aug. 30.

"The manner in which this program was ended," said Harriman, "is typical of the (Eisenhower) administration's custom of taking action without explanation.

Harriman said the department was ordered by the AEC on Sept. 26 to stop the program, four weeks before its scheduled termination. He continued:

"The suspension order is noteworthy not only because it followed Stevenson's speech by six days but also because it followed by two days a day of remarkably high radioactivity.

"From the 13th to the 20th of September there had been several days when the radioactivity in the air measured from 900 to 1,500 disintegrations per minute, far above the usual levels of less than 100 disintegrations per minute.

"On Sept. 24, however, the count went right off the chart—way up to 5,950 disintegration per minute."

Harriman said the Health Department checked with the U. S. Health Service and was told other states had reported similarly high counts. He noted that the Russians were reported to have exploded an H-bomb on Aug. 30.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

AFTERNOON OF AN AUTOCRAT
By NORAH LOFTS

This is an intriguing novel of English country life in the latter part of the eighteenth century. It gives a clear picture of the contrasts between the miserable existence of the lower classes and that of their domineering landlords.

On an afternoon in 1795, Sir Charles Shelmadine, of Clevely Manor, set out on horseback to make the rounds of his tenantry to see that all was in accordance with his reactionary ideas about how his farms should be handled. With some he was graciously condescending, with others—like the Fullers, his largest tenant farmer, he dealt severely because of some unauthorized changes being made in the kitchen, leaving poor Fuller in despair. With Amos Greenway, the cobbler, he was most unkind because his boots weren't ready.

Mishap Prevents Will

Perhaps Sir Charles may be forgiven since his own life had been so unhappy. His beautiful wife went mad and died after three enchanting, terrible years leaving him a son, Richard, who turned out to be completely bad, a drunken wastrel, whom two years ago he had ordered to leave the Manor forever. Sir Charles planned to write a will, disinheriting his son but that very afternoon he was thrown from his horse and died.

So Sir Richard inherited the estate. When the news reached him he had just been relieved of his job as superintendent of an East Indian company. He sent his wife, Linda, to say farewell to the Rajah in the hope that an expensive gift would be forthcoming. There was a gift, the Rajah's most prized possession—a recently acquired pair of beautiful golden pheasants. Linda, being the daughter of a poor English rector, had no money of her own and would have welcomed just one of the Rajah's emeralds, but she thanked him most prettily for she understood that to the Rajah an emerald more or less meant nothing, while the gift of his precious pheasants was a distinct honor.

Of course Sir Richard didn't understand it at all and made one of his rude remarks about his wife's stupidity. Then they returned to Clevely, where Sir Richard took over the manor and proceeded to make sweeping changes which were mostly to the disadvantage of his tenants. Then, tiring of life in the country, he went to London, where he spent most of his time at Angelina's, an establishment which was an amazing combination of a respectable front with a highly unrespectable rear. There at the gaming tables he met one Mumford, very old and un-attractive and possessed of an uncanny power of always winning at cards. Just at that time Linda wrote of a strange underground pagan temple found by workmen who were altering the manor according to Richard's orders. He showed the letter to Mumford, who became intensely interested; came down to Clevely with Richard and hinted of strange uses to which the discovery could be put.

Lonely and Unhappy

Life for Linda, so far from being the pleasant one of Lady of the Manor was lonely and most unhappy. Richard either neglected her completely or else came to Clevely and forced her to play hostess to his disreputable friends—male and female. Her neighbors ignored her, so most of the time her only companions were the servants and the really admirable bailiff, Haldane, who was most respectful and kind to her.

A climax finally came in which Mumford, Richard, Haldane, Linda and even poor little Damask Greenway are involved in a mysterious and tragic manner.

Beside the life at the manor, there is the entirely different one of the lower classes, which is a thing apart. There is Amos, the Cobbler, fanatic Methodist and his efforts to build a Chapel. His dominance over his wife and daughter, Damask. Damask and Danny Fuller's thwarted romance. The ensuing change in her nature and her mysterious hypnotic powers. Her kindness to poor forgetful old Miss Parsons of Dower House and what came of that.

This is altogether a well-told tale with a host of well-drawn characters who add spice to the story.

Dutchess Mansion Ruined by Blaze

Millbrook, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—An 18-room mansion on a 200-acre estate was ruined by a fire that raged all night and left only the shell standing at dawn today.

Fire Chief Augustine Rotunno said he had heard estimates of the loss running over $100,000, but could make no estimate of his own. The fire was discovered by a passing motorist about 9:30 p. m. The cause was not known. No one was home at the time.

When firemen arrived the flames had gained such headway the firemen could not get within 25 feet of the mansion. Five pieces of apparatus and 80 firemen from surrounding Dutchess county towns fought the fire all night.

The estate is owned by T. Arthur Johnson, president of J. D. Johnson Co., plumbing supply house in Poughkeepsie, 15 miles away.

Richard Ellsasser Set to Play Organ Here on Sunday

One of the prime objectives to which organist Richard Ellsasser is devoted is the wish to "bring music back to the church." He recalls that all of the music of the great Johann Sebastian Bach was written and dedicated to the glory of God and first heard in the 17th and 18th Century church.

Mr. Ellsasser will present a concert of music Sunday, 4 p. m. at the Old Dutch Church. A free will offering will be taken.

Ellsasser's first active contact with the church came when he joined a boys' choir at Trinity Cathedral in Cleveland. It was there that he first entertained the thought of entering the ministry and that his genius at the organ began to be developed.

Of necessity, a great many of his organ concerts are presented in churches. Ellsasser studied at Boston University School of Theology and the School of Religion at the University of Southern California. He has appeared as guest preacher in many pulpits throughout the country during his concert tours and is much in demand as a leader in church music conferences.

In 1945, Ellsasser worked with the Methodist Church, composing music for its national pageant, "Only the Valiant." He has served as official organist for the American Baptist Assembly at Green Lake, Wisconsin.

For five years, Ellsasser served as Minister of Music at the Wilshire Methodist Church of Los Angeles, where he worked in close association with the minister, Dr. Theodore Henry Palmquist, to present an integrated program in which music played an outstanding part. In addition to preparing and presenting great music for worship services, he offered a Sunday night concert series which drew audiences from all over Southern California. Ellsasser's achievements in raising the standards and widening the scope of music in church life have won international recognition for him.

In his relatively short career, Ellsasser has found time for considerable work in the field of composition. Two of his published organ numbers, "Toward Evening," a quiet, melodic work; and an impish, rhythmic novelty entitled "Marche Fantastique," have won favor with recitalists throughout the country. A group called "Northwest Suite," descriptive of the countryside near Seattle, Wash., has likewise been enthusiastically received. His arrangements of "Rondo in G" by John Bull and Antonio Vivaldi's "Concerto in A minor," are proving to be two of the best sellers in organ literature and publishers are eagerly awaiting his manuscripts.

In 1946, Ellsasser was awarded the $500 prize by the Henry Levitt Foundation of New York for his musical score to "Greenwich Village," judged the best American ballet of that year. Ellsasser has made an organ arrangement of this suite and plays it occasionally in concerts. It evokes an occasional raised eyebrow at first, but always ends up sweeping audiences along with its dissonant chords, surging rhythms and compelling emotions. A second ballet, "Suicide," is nearing completion.

In the field of religious music, Ellsasser completed "The Decalogue," ten anthems composed especially for use with a series of sermons delivered by Dr. Theodore Henry Palmquist of the Wilshire Methodist Church of Los Angeles, relating the Ten Commandants to ten parables of Jesus.

In addition to his accomplishments in the field of composing, Ellsasser is one of the few musicians who practice the almost lost art of improvising on a submitted theme. He frequently includes such a performance in his concert programs. The theme, generally from four to eight measures, is handed to him in a sealed envelope as he goes to the console and he embroiders and embellishes it into a full-length concert piece at sight.

World Community Day Is Scheduled For Friday at Redeemer Lutheran Church

On Friday, Nov. 2, women from coast to coast will come together to observe World Community Day, sponsored by United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches.

Here in Kingston, World Community Day will be observed at the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wurts and Roger streets at 7:30 p. m.

An important part of the occasion will be the collection of clothing to be sent overseas including India, Pakistan, Korea, Japan, Greece, Italy and Germany.

Some 16 churches here will participate in the event.

In discussing the world situation for the 1956 World Community Day, national chairman Mrs. J. Birdsall Calkins of Alexandria, Va. notes:

"Women recognize today that the sores and evils which affect the social order of the world are the fruit of human sin. Virtually every problem has within it a denial of some form of freedom. As they scan history, they see the stepping stones of man's struggle for order, with justice and freedom, that led to the Declaration of Human Rights.

"The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted unanimously by the General Assembly of the United Nations on December 10, 1948 sets forth four kinds of rights: personal, economic, political and social, and all embracing.

"Already many nations have felt its impact. It has inflenced the constitutions of nine countries from Costa Rica to Indonesia, the basic law of the Federal Republic of Germany and legislation in Canada. It has served for a model for three international agreements and it is explicitly mentioned in the preamble to the Japanese Peace Treaty.

"The Declaration is the first document in human history framed to apply to all mankind—to the hungry and oppressed in Asia and Africa, to the European refugee awaiting a new home, to the Indian American attempting a new life off the reservation, and to the lonely Pakistani shepherd who cries unceasingly for his own patch of earth.

"We cannot remain indifferent to the consequences of the denial of human rights to any people. United Church Women urgently ask you to join in making Friday, November 2, truly World Community Day."

Saugerties Church Schedules Series Of Social Evenings

A series of get-together evenings for the more than 500 adult members of Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement, Saugerties beginning Friday was announced by the Rev. Richard I. Crossland, pastor.

"The Plan," he explained, "is to have groups of 40 or 50 members come together for an evening at the church, where they will discuss some of the plans of the local congregation for 1957, and discuss these in an informal manner." At the conclusion of the discussion period, the movie, "Salt of the Earth" will be shown. "This movie, which was produced by the United Lutheran Church in America is a dramatic story of a modern church in a coal mining area which shows what stewardship and evangelism mean in the life of an individual member," the Rev. Mr. Crossland said. At the conclusion of the film there will be refreshments.

Commenting on the program, the Rev. Mr. Crossland pointed out that, "with the growth that is taking place both in our congregation and throughout the whole area, the church has to be ready to serve the children, the youth and the adults as they move into the community. Quite often the first place a person turns to for friends...for fellowship...for help when they move into a new community, is the church. It is expected that all of the members will get to know each other better by this type of informal gathering."

All of the members of the congregation are receiving phone calls or visits inviting them to one of the get-together nights. The first four nights have been set-up for November 2, 4, 11 and 16.

The hosts for November 2 are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rinde and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kiernan; November 4, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Snell and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schumacher; November 11, Mr. and Mrs. George Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beadle and November 16, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Hildebrandt and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lewis. The Messrs. Rinde, Snell, Dennis and Hildebrandt with the pastor will present the program to the members at the get-together nights.

In the case of ill and shut-ins and others who are not able to attend one of the nights, provision has been made for them to be visited by the pastor with one of the layman of the congregation to discuss the program.

Charleston, W. Va. (AP)—The distinguished names of Benjamin Franklin and Oliver Wendell Holmes graced the traffic court docket on the same day. Franklin failed to show up, and Judge James McWhorter ordered a bench warrant issued. Holmes was fined $36 for speeding, operating a car without lights and running through two stop signs.

WOMEN DANCING TOGETHER

"My husband and I moved to our present location two years ago and have made many new friends. We are all married and all around the same age—mid-forties. On occasions we go out in small groups to dinner. Many of the places where we go have dancing. Some of the husbands don't dance and the women have a habit of dancing together, which is an entirely new experience to me. I have been asked to dance with some of them but I have tried to find some excuse for not doing so as I do not think it proper for two women to dance together. I have seen some of the younger generation do this but at our ages it seems very much out of place. Perhaps I am being an old fogey. Will you tell me if such a practice is proper, and if not, how can I refuse to dance in the future, without being rude."

I agree with your point of view, and you'll have to explain this to them.

Tipping Headwaiter

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a headwaiter in a resort hotel supposed to be given a tip? We gave our waiter and the maid who took care of our rooms generous tips but saw no reason to give the headwaiter anything. However, there seems to be a difference of opinion about this.

Answer: If he gave you an appreciable amount of personal service, you naturally would tip him. But if he merely appointed a table to you on your arrival and did nothing for you after that, there would be no necessity for tipping him.

Celery and Olives

Dear Mrs. Post: Where should celery and olives and other extras be put—on the dinner plate or on the bread and butter plate?

Answer: On the bread and butter plate.

Lutheran Church At Saugerties Sets 2 Services

Sunday, the 23rd Sunday after Trinity, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement in Saugerties will begin a new schedule of services to care for the needs of the growing congregation.

The congregation which has had only one service Sunday at 10:45 a. m., will have services at 8 a. m. and 11 a. m. Sunday church school is held at 9:30 a. m. as usual.

The Rev. Richard I. Crossland, pastor of the congregation announced today that the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered at both the 8 and 11 a. m. services this Sunday. He will speak on "The Mercy of Magdala."

To Show Film

During Sunday church school, the film, "Song of Sumatra," will be shown to the primary, junior, intermediate and senior departments. This movie is a story of from demons to God, hatred to love, death to life. These are the paths blazed and trod by Missionary Ludwig Nommensen as he planted the church on this green, sun-drenched island — home of former cannibals.

Dramatically, the film shows the Christian work which went before Lutheran World Action and the new work carried on by Lutheran World Action today. The Bataks of Sumatra now number one and one-half millions; the Lutheran Church claims six hundred thousands of them. This is their story—Nommensen's story—Lutheran World Action's story of schools, churches—and love.

All are invited to the showing of this film or any of the services at the church.

George Fears Use Of Force May Be NATO Death Blow

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 1 (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George (D.-Ga.) fears the use of military force by Britain and France against Egypt is a "death blow" to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

George, who is President Eisenhower's special representative to NATO, in an interview with the Augusta Herald today said:

"The Israelis started the present trouble because they were encouraged to do so by both England and France. It may be that Russia's preoccupation with revolt in her satellite nations may have convinced the anti-Communists it was a good time to act."

"France and Britain have virtually withdrawn from NATO by taking action against Egypt," George said. "NATO was the screen of protection for western Europe against Communist Russia and the United States has sunk vast sums into it. The situation today presents one of the meanest pictures in world affairs we have had in some time," he added.

The 78-year-old senator, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, stopped in Augusta on his way to his home in Vienna for "10 days rest." He returned with Mrs. George from a two-month tour of Europe just one week ago.

Railroader Retires

ALEXANDER E. CAHILL

Alexander E. Cahill of Kingston, retired Wednesday from the River Division of the New York Central Railroad after 54 years of service.

Mr. Cahill comes from a traditional railroad family. His father worked for the railroad; his brother, Daniel, retired two years ago from the Central; and a nephew, Michael J. Larkin is now with the same railroad family.

The Central conductor, who is known as Ike to all of his friends, began serving the Central in 1902 as a switchman. In 1903 he was hired out as an extra brakeman, and the following year became regular road brakeman.

The events of World War 1 took Ike away from his family and friends to serve with the American forces in France. Soon after he returned, in 1919, he rejoined Central's staff in the capacity of conductor, a position which he has held for the past 35 years.

A devoted husband and father of seven children, Patricia, Frank, Rosemary, Robert, Daniel, Edward and Genevieve, Mr. Cahill makes his home with his wife, Frances at 154 TenBroeck avenue. He is a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, its Holy Name Society, and the Order of Railway Conductors.

women signed up, compared with 3,796,665 men.

New York city's registration this year is 3,274,873, a drop of 254,000 from the total in the Democratic stronghold four years ago.

In the rest of the state, areas traditionally considered the source of Republican strength, registration is up 101,000 to an all-time high of 4,414,426.

The State Department reported the balloting would be conducted in 11,139 election districts—4,609 in New York city and 6,530 outside the city.

Over 7,700,000 Register

The official registration figures confirm an Associated Press county-by-county survey last week that indicated voter registration would be about 7,700,000 and the second highest in the state's history.

Of the huge registration upstate, 2,292,805 were signed up under the non-personal registration system. Under the system, in effect in rural areas, voters need not appear in person to register and names may be carried over from year to year if election board officials are satisfied the voter is active.

There were heavy increases in registrants in rapidly growing suburban areas especially around New York city. Nassau county, in Long Island, reported a four-year increase from 512,112 to 584,030. Suffolk county, also on Long Island, showed a spurt from 198,457 to 268,402. In Westchester county, 400,018 are registered, compared with 377,461 four years ago.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

It is nice hearing from Kingstonians who are now working or living out of town. Don H. Zucca who is connected with the New York regional office of Montgomery Ward wrote me from New York that he buys The Freeman down there and reads this column. He also wrote that his father, the late Paul Zucca, who was an alderman in Kingston for some quarter of a century was on the original committee for the new Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, when the bridge was only a dream. It would be interesting to hear what folks thought then of the bridge that has just linked both sides of the Hudson near us. Paul Zucca was also known for his orchestra, and his community sing which he organized wherever his boys played.

Another Kingstonian, although he had homes in Port Ewen and Connelly is now enjoying Forida sunshine writes that he also sees The Freeman and enjoyed article in this column about the Connelly ferry. Anthony and Sophie Vetoskie say they are both enjoying the nice warm weather, but miss Kingston and their many friends. While reading the Miami Herald on Sunday they ran across an article about the "Land of the Sky" Ulster county's vacation area, and also about Capt. Rowe, who is writing a book (Under My Wings) and he was born in Shandaken, so they sent me both items. This from The Miami Herald of Sunday, October 21, 1956: "Scenic Ulster county's vacation areas in New York state are accessible over Route 28 which has been officially designated the Onteora (Indian word meaning Land of the Sky) trail. It provides a scenic drive for motorists traveling to Olive from the thruway interchange at Kingston."

The other item is an exciting one about a boy who was known locally "as a pilot from Shandaken who became head of Pan American Airways!" His name is Capt. Basil L. Rowe, of 743 Alhambra Drive, Coral Gables. This from the Florida paper: "I was just a kid of 17 watching an old-time flier at a county fair. He stubbed his toe on a tree trunk and fell into a creek. I went over to help him, and got myself a job as a fifth-rate mechanic. The next year he taught me to fly and I sat alongside him on the wing. I've been flying ever since." No doubt many folks who were interested in aviation and spent time around local airports in the early 30's remember Capt. Rowe, the now retired Pan American Airways master pilot, who probably has flown farther than any other living person, with a fantastic officially loggedd 34,800 hours. From his experiences, beginning before World War 1, he wrote a book "Under My Wings" published by Bobbs-Merrill which, no doubt will be thrilling.

Capt. Rowe, started his career ofter serving in World War 1, by barnstorming the United States and Latin America in the 1920's. In 1926, he organized the West Indies Aerial Express, merging it with PAA in August, 1928. It is said, he flew everything from baling wire crates to 350 mile-an-hour-plus modern Clippers. It took an inflexible PAA rule, mandatory retirement at the age of 60, to ground the captain. Capt. Rowe (Shandaken born) made the first commercial flight from Miami, through Haiti and the Dominican Republic to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Jan. 9th, 1929. No doubt many Kingstonians and Ulster county folks heard much about his flights at the time. It is said that on many of these pioneering flights Col. Charles A. Lindberg shared the controls with him.

Dock Strike Off For Two Weeks

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—A threatened waterfront strike has been staved off for at least 15 days.

The International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) and the New York Shipping Assn., the employer group, have agreed to extend the current work contract until midnight Nov. 15.

A one-month extension of the contract expired last midnight, and a strike at that hour had threatened. The ILA usually follows a "no contract, no work" policy.

Ther were fears that a strike in the port of New York would spread along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. The ILA represents dock workers from Portland, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

The ILA which represents 22,000 workers on the New York and New Jersey docks in the port of New York, and the shipping association, which represents 170 shipping and stevedoring firms in this area, have been negotiating for a new contract on and off since Aug. 1.

South was in a hurry to discard a loser in today's hand, and his haste cost him the contract.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and South won with his singleton ace. He gleefully led a trump to dummy's king and cashed the king of diamonds in order to get rid of the losing spade. He then discarded a club on the queen of diamonds and led a club in order to prepare for a cross-ruff.

East stepped up with the king of clubs and led a second trump. This limited declarer to one club ruff in the dummy, and he wound up losing two more club tricks and a trump.

South's correct line of play is to lead a club at the second trick. This permits the defenders to take a spade and then shift to trumps. Dummy wins with the king of hearts, and declarer discards two losing clubs on dummy's high diamonds.

South is now in position to cross-ruff the rest of the hand, disposing of the rest of his losing clubs in this way. He loses only one club, one spade, and one trump, fulfilling the game contract.

Prohibits Parking

Joseph P. Kelly, chairman of the New York State Traffic Commission today announced the recent issuance of an order by the commission prohibiting parking or standing of vehicles on the west side of Rock City road, Woodstock, between Route 212 and Mountain View avenue, a distance of 0.2 of a mile.

A young man went to Nome with his father during the Alaska gold rush days and observed how the sourdoughs lived. One outfit in particular intrigued him. There were five in the party.

Each week it was the duty of one to be Miss Housewife. He cooked and cleaned up about the shack. He did it to his own satisfaction and if one of the quintet complained, the complainer automatically became Miss Housewife and followed up with his regular turn of duty.

One morning the sourdough on housewife duty had a hangover. He doctored the mush. The first man to gobble a mouthful of the stuff spat and yelled: "Some dirty so-and-so put coal oil in my mush!"

Then, remembering the price of kicking, he scooped up another spoonful and hastily declared: "But I like it that way —I like it!"

Wife (with newspaper) to husband—Here is another powerful temperance moral: "Young Spillers got into a boat and shoved out into the river, and as he was intoxicated, he upset the boat, fell into the river and was drowned." Now, sir (addressing her husband), if he had not drunk whisky he would not have lost his life.

Husband—Let me see. He fell into the river, didn't he?

Wife—Of course he did.

Husband—Didn't die until he fell in?

Husband—Then it was the water that killed him.

A retired colonel had been advised by his doctor that if he did not give up whiskey it would shorten his life.

Colonel—Think so?

Doctor—I am sure of it, colonel. If you stop drinking I am sure it will prolong your days.

Colonel—Come to think of it, I believe you are right about that, Doctor. I went twenty-four hours without a drink six months ago, and I never put in such a long day in my life.

The day of a big snowstorm the country schoolteacher felt called upon to warn her charges against playing too long in the snow. She said, "Now, children, you must be careful about colds and over-exposure. I had a darling little brother only seven years old. One day he went out in the snow with his new sled and caught cold. Pneumonia set in and three days later he died."

The room was silent for a while, and then a youngster in the back row raised his hand and asked, "Where's his sled?"

Sir Campbell Bannerman MP was once asked his opinion on the liquor traffic. He replied: "The liquor traffic is a large subject, and I can hardly enter on it here. There is an old story of a Highlander who was asked if whiskey was not a bad thing. 'Yes,' said he, 'very bad—especially bad whiskey'."

Mission Accomplished

Vicksburg, Miss. (AP)—Evening Post carrier Bobby Hudson grimly watched a physician make 10 stitches in his arm to close a wound received hours before when his bicycle skidded on wet pavement. Asked why he had waited so long before seeking treatment, Bobby replied, "I had to finish my paper route."

Distillers Hike Prices, Another Due January 1

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Whiskey and gin drinking became more expensive in some states today. Prices will go up in other states a month from today, and in still more states Jan. 1.

Today's boosts are only on some of the brands of certain distillers, and on certain categories of whiskey, a survey of leading distillers showed. But sources in the industry say other firms are almost sure to follow the lead of such giants as Joseph Seagram & Sons, Schenley Industries Inc., and Publicker Industries Inc. in hiking prices.

How much more will a bottle cost at the consumer level?

May Jump 40 Cents

Distillers say the ultimate consumer increase will differ from state to state. Most estimates are that a "fifth" will cost 25 to 35 cents more than previously, although the jump may be anywhere from a nickel to 40 cents.

Seagram suggested in its announcement, made Sept. 28 in order to comply with the varied posting regulations of the states, that taverns and bars could pass along the increase at the rate of a nickel a drink.

It's all part of the first across-the-board increase by the distillers—except those due to excise taxes—since prohibition was repealed in 1933. To a man, those who are increasing prices say it's necessary because of steadily rising costs in every part of the industry.

People who prefer Scotch whiskey will get away without a price increase this time. Importers say no hike is expected before March, if then.

Weekly Food Review

By The Associated Press

Housewives with a good memory for bargains may think the calendar has been turned back a year when they visit their favorite meat counters this weekend.

Pork Is Featured

The reason is that pork will be featured by many meat men, just as it was a year ago when pig products were almost a glut on the market. Government experts say the supply of porkers being marketed will be seasonally heavy in late November and early December, although somewhat below 1955 levels.

Pork loins, pork chops and roast pork all are scheduled for feature billing at many supermarkets and corner grocery stores. Prices are down from 2 to 10 cents in most areas.

Other Good Buys

Ham, lamb and chicken also will be getting a big play from bargain hunters. Beef, for the most part, was still a bit high in most places, although low-cost roasts such as boneless chuck were featured in some stores. Scattered sections reported sirloin and porterhouse steaks on the special list.

Vegetable and fruit counters generally are expected to show little change from last week except, of course, that pumpkins will be less noticeable.

Cabbage, cauliflower and squash all are at the top of the bargain list. In sections where nearby crops still are available, onions, potatoes and beets also are extremely attractive in price.

Good buys also are reported for brussel sprouts, carrots, celery, endive and escarole. Beans are a bit high for good quality in some sections, as are cucumbers, while supplies of corn are light and therefore generally expensive.

Lettuce Supplies Off

Supplies of lettuce from the big western growing areas also are reported on the light side this week, making things difficult for salad lovers. More tomatoes are coming to market, however, which should help.

Some varieties of apples are abundant, and therefore cheap, but the popular eating type, McIntosh and Delicious, are reported too expensive to be considered a good bargain. Similarly, Tokay and Emperor grapes are attractively priced, but most other types are high.

Grapefruit are getting more attractive pricewise, with the start of November, and are expected to get better each week.

Two Plead Guilty

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Two Waltham, Mass., men pleaded guilty today to a gun-carrying charge, ending their trial on kidnaping and Sullivan Weapons Law charges in connection with the alleged abduction of a Plandome, N. Y., man. Robert D. Burns and William John Cleary, both 21, entered their pleas after a General Sessions Court jury deliberated nearly 12 hours without reaching a verdict. The gun carrying charge stemmed from a navy flare pistol allegedly used by the pair to force John Thomas Degnan, 27, into his car in Boston and forcing him to drive them to New York.

Long Wait

Columbus, Miss. (AP) — John Daniels told Chancery Court recently he had given his wife a chance to return to his home before seeking a divorce. "How long did you wait?" Acting Chancellor Tom Tubb asked. "Since 1927," Daniels replied. "Divorce granted," Tubb decided.

Corny Idea

Roanoke, Va. (AP)—Leave it to the youngsters for originality. A carload of them at a drive-in theatre here wanted popcorn to eat during the movie. To be different, they brought their own corn—unpopped—and asked the concession stand to pop it for them. The concession people declined.

Help Appreciated On Seals Program

The Ulster County TB and Health Association today expressed appreciation to the Girl Scouts, B'nai B'rith, the Mary Todd Lincoln Club, societies from the Fair Street Reformed Church, the St. James Methodist Church, the first Baptist Church, the B'nai B'rith Auxiliary, the American Legion Auxiliary, and other individual volunteers who assisted in assemblying materials for the annual Christmas Seals drive which begins November 15.

Mrs. Richard Kalish, chairman of volunteers, said, "many details of the drive have been completed and letters with seals and return envelopes will be ready soon for mailing to residents throughout Ulster county."

The many volunteers in their preparation of this mail learned among other things, that 82 per cent of Christmas Seals funds remain here and are used in Ulster county to carry on promotion of mass chest X-ray surveys, rehabilitation for patients at Ulster County TB Hospital, medical research, and close cooperation with Heart Chapter and other health and welfare agencies.

Nobel Physics Awards Given to U. S. Scientists

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 1 (AP)—The 1956 Nobel prize in physics was awarded to three U. S. scientists today for their development of the tiny transistor.

The winners, who did their work in the laboratories of the Bell Telephone Co., are William Shockley of Pasadena, Calif., Jay Bardeen of Urbana, Ill., and Walter H. Brattain, Murray Hill, N. J.

The $38,633 physics award—to be split three ways among the winners—recognized the swift advance of science and technology into the vast new field of physics of the solid states.

It was known that the transistor team had been figuring high among the Nobel physics prize candidates for several years. They had long ago been declared prizeworthy by Nobel committee experts.

The micro-amplifiers known as transistors perform virtually every function of vacuum tubes in electronics and communications but need only a fraction of the current and space of the old vacuum devices. They can be made of various semiconductor solids. Transistors work by directing the flow of electric current through "holes" in the crystals.

Brothers Are Shot

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—Police today shot and wounded two brothers they said had broken into a restaurant safe with the aid of a third man. The third man also was captured but was not injured. The amount of the loot was not determined immediately. Police identified the wounded as: Armando Barrera, 27, (294 East Main street) Amsterdam, and Claudio Barrera, 21, (129 Northern Boulevard), Albany. They were taken to St. Mary's Hospital here. Their condition was reported "not serious." Armando was shot in the back and Claudio in the right hand. The third man, identified as Alfred Galan, 26, (106 Morris street), Albany, was held on charges of burglary and grand larceny.

Baghdad, Iraq, Nov. 1 (AP)—Iraq today ordered full mobilization of its armed forces in readiness for any Israeli attack on Jordan. An official announcement said the Council of Ministers had instructed the Ministry of Defense "to complete full mobilization of the Iraqi army." It added the army is standing by for combined action with Jordan to defend the latter against any Israeli aggression. The announcement did not say whether Jordan had made a formal application for aid.

Why We Say--

BRITISH SAILORS: This expression comes from the British Navy. At one time wives were allowed to go to sea with their husbands. A son born on these trips was called a "son of a gun" because he was literally born below the guns on a ship.

Oh, Yeah!

Crawfordsville, Ind. (AP) — A sign for motorists traveling on a nearby highway reads: "Don't just sit there, nag your husband."

Chemistry Award Goes To Red, Englishman

Stockholm, Nov. 1 (AP)—A Russian and an Englishman won the 1956 Nobel prize in chemistry jointly today for discovering the rules of conduct when melocules blow up in chain reactions or combine smoothly.

Their work laid the foundation for the development of plastics and was a factor in later atomic research.

The winner of the first Nobel award ever given to a Soviet citizen is Nikolai N. Semyonov, bearded 60-year-old Moscow professor of physical chemistry and the organizer of much of Russia's chemical science.

Sharing the $38,633 award is Sir Cyril Hinshelwood, 59, of Oxford University. He and Semyonov worked independently, but have been friends and correspondents for some 25 years. The Briton visited his Russian colleague in Leningrad soon after World War 2.

Four Children Die Observing Halloween

Brussels, Wis., Nov. 1 (AP)—Four little children, out on a "trick or treat" Halloween excursion last night, were struck and killed by an auto and three others were injured as they crossed a highway in Door county.

The dead were Jane Rass, 9; her brother, Neil, 11; Steven Jandrin, 7, and Monica Miller, 8, all of Brussels, a tiny community in northeastern Wisconsin.

Hospitalized at Algoma Memorial Hospital are Denise Jandrin, 10, Roger Miller Jr., 6, and Marcia Miller, 8. Hospital authorities said their condition was not critical.

6 N.Y. Papers Reach Terms; Strike at Post Is Expected

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Six of New York city's seven major daily newspapers and the New York Newspaper Guild settled contract disputes today, but the union said it would recommend a strike against the Post at a meeting tonight.

Negotiations between the Guild and the Post were broken off after dawn following an all-night session.

Agree on Wages

All seven newspapers settled on a wage increase.

But a Guild spokesman said negotiations on the Post were deadlocked on four issues.

Guild organizer Anthony Stella said the wage formula reached, provides a $9 weekly average wage package spread over the period of two-year contracts.

He said the agreement for a $5 average weekly salary increase the first year, to be distributed among the various classifications on the newspapers. He added that the increase would vary according to the salary schedules on every newspaper.

5,000 Affected

The current average is $100 a week, according to the Guild. About 5,000 employes in the city are affected on the seven newspapers.

Stella said the Guild has an option to allocate $3 and the $4 average weekly increase in the second year to a pension or welfare fund.

Minimum wages on the newspaper have ranged from $50.50 a week for starting copy boys to $141.50 for top-experience news and photo employes. Many employes are paid more.

The settlements will be put to the union membership for a ratification vote.

The union, a unit of the American Newspaper Guild which represents editorial, commercial and maintenance department employes, had set a strike deadline for last midnight when contracts expired.

The union had threatened to strike one or two of the newspapers if no agreement was reached. Selection of the targets was left to union officers.

Settlements were reached on the Times, Herald Tribune, News World-Telegram and Sun, Journal-American and Mirror.

Strike in Cleveland

Cleveland, Nov. 1 (AP)—Pickets from the American Newspaper Guild marched today outside the Cleveland Press building in the first strike against a newspaper here since 1946.

It was the first strike ever staged by the Guild's 23-year-old Cleveland Local No. 1.

Wages Main Issue

The pickets took their stations at midnight when an old contract ran out with negotiators unable to agree on a new one to replace it.

Wages were the main issue. The existing newsman minimum here is $122.50 after five years experience.

Guild units at the Press and at the city's other two big daily newspapers—The Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland News—have pared higher original demands to a boost of from $9 to $12.50 in a two-year contract.

Management of the Press offered an increase from $6 to $10.50 early today in an "after-the-deadline" meeting with Guild negotiators and a federal conciliator. But the Guild turned it down and the meeting broke up.

Gloves Trap Slayer

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 1 (AP)—A pair of gloves trapped a 16-year-old high school sophomore yesterday into admitting that he killed his stepfather. Detective Capt. Ray Johnson said Anthony T. Brewbaker, 16, admitted he and his mother, Gladys Martin, 35, had planned for two weeks to kill Mrs. Martin's husband, Robert Martin, 32, a steel mill foreman. Johnson said the mother gave a similar statement. They said Martin abused the mother and two children and drank heavily. Preliminary charges of murder were filed against mother and son.

Major Bowl Bid Awaits Syracuse-State Winner

Syracuse, Nov. 1 (AP) — The winner of the Syracuse-Penn State football battle here Saturday may be in line to represent the East in a post-season bowl game.

The Nittany Lions and Syracuse, along with Pittsburgh, are rated as the three powers most likely to proceed to a post-season spectacular, if bowl promoters are considering an eastern representative.

Pitt's traveling Panthers put their bowl hopes on the line in Minneapolis Saturday against undefeated Minnesota. And the Gophers, upset victors over Michigan last week, have bowl thoughts of their own.

But for the independents, the number of bowls are limited—at least in the major class.

Rose Bowl Fades

The Rose Bowl, once heralded as the site of the "national championship" game, now takes its pairings from the leaders or near-leaders of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences. The Orange Bowl, too, has conference alliances with the Atlantic Coast Conference the Big Seven.

Of the four major bowls, only the Cotton at Dallas and the Sugar at New Orleans remain for independents. The fifth-rated bowl is the Gator at Jacksonville, Fla.

A recent Louisiana edict that bans mixed white-Negro sports competition may result in an eastern snub of the Sugar Bowl. It isn't very likely Syracuse would entertain a Sugar bid in view of the fact that its finest back, Jimmy Brown, is a Negro.

That leaves the Cotton Bowl and the Gator.

Syracuse Athletic Director Lew Andreas said recently he wasn't interested in a Gator Bowl offer, but indicated he might cotton to some other bid.

Matter of Pride

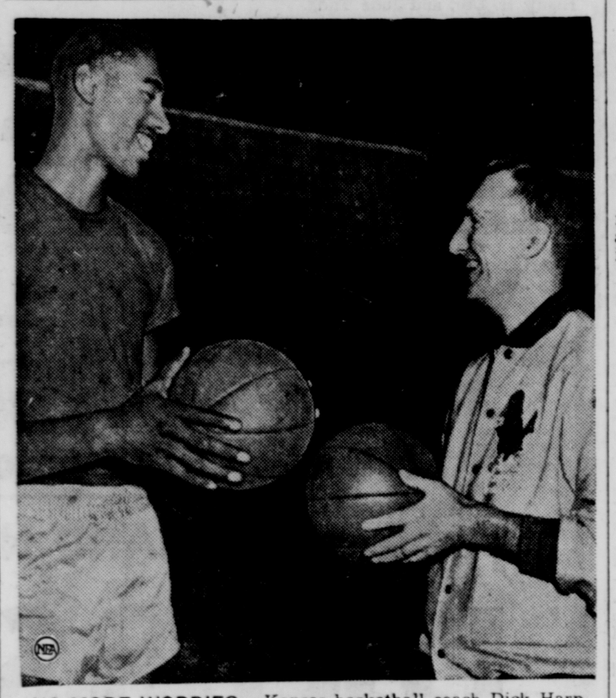
Syracuse wants a bowl bid if for no other reason than to try to redeem itself in the eyes of the football public, some of which remember's the 1953 slashing it took from Alabama (61-6) in the Orange Bowl.

Thus Saturday's clash at Archbold Stadium will play an important role in the way of post-season bowl hopes.

On the basis of performance against common opponents, the two clubs are well matched. Both defeated West Virginia (Syracuse 27-20, Penn State, 16-6). The Nittany Lions suffered their only setback of the season to Army, 14-7, which Syracuse defeated, 7-0.

Pitt's ambitious schedule may prove a stumbling block. After Saturday's contest at Minneapolis, the Panthers take on Notre Dame, Army, Penn State and Miami. California's Golden Bears handed the Panthers their only loss to date.

Syracuse will close its schedule against Holy Cross and Colgate. Penn State finishes with Boston University, North Carolina State and Pitt. All three clubs have 4-1 records.



NO MORE WORRIES—Kansas basketball coach Dick Harp felt a bit better about things when Wilt The Stilt Chamberlain, his seven-foot sophomore, returned to practice. Chamberlain had been confined for minor throat surgery.

Reading Hurler Eastern's MVP

Binghamton, Nov. 2 (AP)—Vic Lapiner, a rookie righthander from the University of Southern California, today was named as the Eastern League's most valuable pitcher for the 1956 season.

Lapiner pitched for Reading.

The vote of the Eastern League Baseball Writers Assn., announced by secretary Marvin Behr, gave Lapiner 21 points to nine for Buzz Bowers, Schenectady's relief specialist.

Lapiner, in his first professional season, won 17 games, six by shutouts, and lost five. He compiled an unofficial 1.85 earned run average to lead the league, struck out 100 and gave only 78 walks in 188 innings.

Two-Way Pitcher

Vic was equally effective as a starter and reliever. He didn't start a game until May 26 and then was called upon 20 times, completing 13. He relieved 21 times.

Bowers, who started only once, set a league record by appearing in 60 games of a 140-game season.

Depends on Standings

NFL Officiating Seems Matter of Wins-Losses

By ORLO ROBERTSON
The Associated Press

Whether officiating in the National Football League is good or bad apparently depends on a team's position in the standings.

A check of club officials showed that for the most part the coaches and owners of teams with poor records condemn the officiating while those with title chances see nothing wrong.

It all started with Tony Morabito, owner of the San Francisco 49ers, expressing dissatisfaction with the officiating after his club lost to the Chicago Bears 38-21 Sunday for their fourth setback in five games. Morabito said he would try to get Commissioner Bert Bell fired when the league meets in January.

And then Morabito was joined by Coach Paul Brown, whose Cleveland Browns also have dropped 4 of their 5 games.

"It isn't only Tony," said Brown. "There is a general feeling around the league that the officiating has to be improved. The thing that irks Tony is that you can't do anything about it. But something has to be done, and I think Bert Bell himself agrees that something must be done."

Bert Bell's Reply

To which Bell replied:

"The officials are doing a great job. They have 50 to 60 judgment plays a game and naturally everyone doesn't see them the same way. We have the best officials around. I don't say they don't sometimes make mistakes. We all do. But they do a great job in a tough situation."

Lining up with Bell in the argument were executives of the Chicago Cardinals and New York Giants, whose 4-1 records gives them a tie for first place in the Eastern Conference.

Coach Joe Kuharich of the Washington Redskins (2-3) said he was "sure that Bell and the owners are making an effort to get and assign the best men available."

General Manager Tex Schramm and Coach Sid Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams (1-4) said "We feel there should be a continuing program to survey the work of the officials with an eye to improving the officiating and keeping it abreast of the game as played in the NFL.

Walt Kiseling, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers (2-3) said there have been times this season when he thought the officiating was bad. "And at other times I thought it was good," he added.

Officials of other clubs either were unavailable or declined to comment.

Toronto Mauls Rangers, 7 to 2

(By The Associated Press)

The Toronto Maple Leafs, who weren't picked to go far in the National Hockey League this season, are proving the experts wrong.

True, the 1956-57 season has just got started but the Leafs are tied for first with the Detroit Red Wings after going through their last seven games without a defeat. Last night they beat the New York Rangers 7-2 for their 4th victory in the string.

The Leafs, rolling up the highest score of the season, tallied four times in the first period, picked up another in the second and added two more goals in the final 20 minutes.

Centers Rudy Migay and Billy Harris and rightwinger George Armstrong led the scoring parade with two goals each. The other came off the stick of rookie rightwinger Gary Aldcorn.

The Rangers, who brought up two farmhands from their Providence farm in an effort to add more offensive punch, saw two defensemen — Jack Evans and Larry Cahan—do all their scoring.

New Cage Squad Seeks Area Games

A new basketball team, as yet unnamed, has been organized to represent the towns of Phoenicia, Boiceville, Ashokan, Glenford, Olive Bridge and West Shokan, booking agent, Bud Jackson, announced today.

Ray Kirk was elected manager and treasurer. The team is sponsoring a movie "Tribute to a Band Man," Nov. 20-21, at the Phoenicia movie theatre.

Area teams wishing to book home or road games with the new club may contact Jackson at West Shokan.

The ex-Brooklyn Dodger scout, A. B. (Turk) Karam, the man with the sinister eyebrows and perennial interest in local junior baseball, was never one to squelch a personal opinion.

Karam's ex-status with the Dodgers stemmed from a few highly explosive remarks he made at a Little League banquet at South Weymouth, Mass. in the Cape Cod area.

Seems that Turk questioned Manager Walter Alston's intestinal fortitude in the closing stages of the unfortunate 1956 World Series. A bright, young enterprising sportswriter sent the story out on the AP wires. It created a bombshell in Brooklyn, naturally.

But Karam may have been the victim of a bad rap. It has yet to be determined whether he made the "gutless" remark in the course of the speech to the Little Leaguers or in a private conversation with the sportswriter.

We've had many opportunities to talk baseball with Karam and on several occasions he volunteered opinions on the status and welfare of the Dodger ball club that might have cost Turk his job several times had we put them on the wire, which we didn't. They were on the pithy side, but strictly man-to-man and on such a basis were never intended for publication. Such a confidence may have been violated at Cape Cod.

During all the hullabaloo about the incident we couldn't help recalling that in May of 1956 some members of the Dodgers had appraised Manager Alston's talents in somewhat similar unendearing fashion. They weren't fired, of course.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Vince Dino, Middletown basketball promoter, says the Middletown Royals will turn pro this year and schedule games with NBA teams and the leading independent road squads. The kickoff is scheduled on Sunday, Nov. 18, against the Harlem Globetrotters. Dino tried unsuccessfully, principally because of the financial shorts, to affiliate with the Eastern League this season, but indicates chances are good for the 1957-58 campaign. Among the stars scheduled to wear the Royal uniform are Dan Finn, a veteran of St. John's College and formerly with the Philadelphia Warriors of the NBA; Roy Belleveau of Seton Hall; Wally Sheil, formerly of St. Peter's College and Dave Lattimer. . . . The Globetrotters are scheduled to play in Oneonta on Nov. 16, then visit Kingston on Tuesday, Nov. 20. . . . Eddie O'Connor, former St. Patrick's (Newburgh) and Manhattan College star, is the new basketball coach at St. Joseph's High in West New York. . . . Kevin Conwicke, son of Ted Conwicke, Kingston High football coach in 1942-43, is a sophomore right end with the Colgate University eleven. His dad now coaches at Endicott Central.

• Of Men and Mice:

Charlie (Chuck) Nord, former Freeman sports writer who won the first annual Grantland Rice Memorial scholarship award, rubbed elbows with the elite of the sports world at Toots Shor in New York at noon today. Nord was flown to New York from Nashville, Tenn., by the Thoroughbred Racing Association which sponsored the Rice scholarship (four years at Vanderbilt University) in order to attend and be presented to the group which was honoring Red Smith of the Herald-Tribune with the first annual Grantland Rice Award for sportswriting. . . . Ward Dunham and Big Bill Knott are assembling a basketball team to meet Newburgh's best in the prelim to the Globetrotter contest on Nov. 20. Coach Walter S. Van Wagenen is higher on the 1956-57 Woodstock Varsity than any time in several years. . . . Lewis Singer of Kingston and William McCormick of Saugerties are reserves with the Ithaca College freshman soccer squad.

Harry Grayson, the hard hitting NEA sports editor, asks out loud: "Is Notre Dame deliberately cutting the tempo of its footbal program?" But Jimmy Breslin of the same staff has another slant: "Leahy said we'd always lose. . . . It got so bad it wasn't news. . . . But now I'm really on my back. . . . I need another Johnny Lujack. . . ." Hollywood Park, the track of lakes and flowers, boasts a number of bodies of water—lakes, lagoons, etc. They are planning a statue of the record-breaking Swaps, probably the greatest of the California-breds. Asked to suggest a location for the statue, a quick-witted wag replied. "Next to the minus pool."

Loss of Olympics?

Middle East Crisis Poses Problem for Australians

Melbourne, Nov. 1 (AP) — Whether the Olympic games will open here three weeks from today as scheduled is a question that has all Melbourne talking and organizing officials obviously worried.

The point is, if Australia lines up with Britain as she did in both of the World Wars, will the International Olympic Committee cancel Melbourne's charter to stage the games starting Nov. 22?

Two top organizers, Wilfred S. S. Kent Hughes, chairman of the Olympic organizing committee, and Lieut. Gen. Sir William Bridgeford, chief executive officer, conferred this morning on possible effects the military action in the Middle East will have on the games.

Both told the Associated Press they think the games will go on as scheduled.

But there is a feeling among Olympic officials that the IOC might ask Great Britain, France and Israel to withdraw their teams. Traditionally countries at war do not take part in the Olympic games although Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, said in Lausanne, Switzerland, there is no Olympic rule preventing countries at war from competing.

Kent Hughes, trying to keep separate his role as a member of the Australian House of Representatives and chairman of the organizing committee, decided not to go to Canberra today to hear Prime Minister Menzies' report on the Middle East situation.

Stole the Show

Charlotte, N. C. (AP)—M. L. Johnson of Danford gave the oddsmakers something to figure on during the Carolinas Beauty and Harvest Festival. Six fur stoles were given away during the show. Johnson's name was drawn three times out of a box that contained thousands of tickets.

Back's Blast Texacos, 140-58

DuBois Hits 35, Lawrence 34 in Autumn League

The November heat wave caught up with YMCA Autumn cagers lase night.

Exploding for a 56-point third quarter, Back's No. 1 squad overwhelmed the Texaco Thruway, 140 to 58.

Harry's Angels ground out a steady margin in the first three periods to defeat Hoppy's, 80-70 in a somewhat more sane exhibition.

DuBois Sinks 35

It wasn't a question of double figure scoring for the Backs. They had six men do it. The big trick was to score 20 or more and four did it.

Bill DuBois, the set shot ace, rimmed 35 points and Ray Lawrence had 34. Fred Orr and Huyler Van Wagenen racked up 20 apiece. J. Lechner hooped 24 and Don Whipple had 20 for the Thruway.

Skip Brodhead accounted for 21 Angel points against Hoppy's. Al Long (23) and Dick Terlingen (20) paced the losers.

Syracuse Added To Cornell Slate

Ithaca, Nov. 1 (AP)—Upstate rival Syracuse will be the only new face on the 1957 Cornell football schedule, it was announced today by Athletic Director Robert J. Kane.

Syracuse, which has not met the Big Red since 1954, replaces Navy on the nine-game schedule. Cornell will play five home games, opening Sept. 28 with Colgate, the third member of the upstate Big Three.

Cornell will play Syracuse at Ithaca on Oct. 12. In 1958, the teams will meet at Syracuse.

Brown will come to Ithaca for the first time, on Nov. 9.

The schedule:

Sept. 28 Colgate; Oct. 5, at Harvard; Oct. 12 Syracuse; Oct. 19 Yale; Oct. 26, at Princeton; Nov. 2 Columbia; Nov. 9 Brown; Nov. 16, at Dartmouth; Nov. 28, at Penn.

Price Resigns As Texas Coach

Austin, Tex., Nov. 1 (AP)—Ed Price, the winningest coach in the Southwest Conference during his tennure, has resigned as head football coach of the University of Texas, effective Dec. 31, 1956.

Price, 47, now in the middle of his sixth season as head coach at his alma mater, addressed his resignation to the athletic council, submitting it through athletic director Dana X. Bible.

Price has one more year on his present $12,500 year contract and Bible steps out next September.

Dayton Awarded AAU Track Meet

Los Angeles, Nov. 1 (AP)—The National AAU track and field championships for 1957 have been awarded to Dayton, Ohio, after a discussion in which the segregation issue was raised.

Dayton won out over Corpus Christi, Tex., when delegates raised the possibility that Negroes competing in the meet might experience difficulties in finding living quarters in the Texas town.

Campbell Advances

Mexico City, Nov. 1 (AP)—Bill Campbell, Huntington, W. Va., defeated E. F. Hall, San Antonio, Tex., 2 and 1 to lead the advance of favorites through the first round of the Mexican National Amateur tournament yesterday.

The Autumnal Madness

McDonald and Majors All-America Choices

By BOB HOOBING
The Associated Press

Oklahoma's devastating halfback combination, a slender tailback and a sore-shouldered fullback are among the leading All America backfield candidates as the football season swings into November.

Tommy McDonald, seeking All America honors for the second straight year, and Glendon Thomas are the twin spark plugs who ignited the nation's most potent offense, then demoralize opponents with their defensive skills.

"The best tailback we've ever had," is Tennessee athletic director Gen. Bob Neyland's description of John (Drum) Majors. The waspish, 162-pounder does most of the running, all the passing and kicking, calls signals and plays safetyman in the once-dominant single wing system.

Jack Pardee, a fullback who plays with unrestrained vigor, is the heart of the Texas Aggies as an outstanding runner and linebacker. He starred in vital Southwest Conference triumphs over Texas Christian and Baylor despite a deep shoulder bruise.

Brown Making Bid

The Associated Press regional All America boards located in every sector of the country have made their first nominations complete through October happenings.

Quarterbacks John Brodie of Stanford, Paul Hornung of Notre Dame and Len Dawson of Purdue drew abundant praise.

At halfback, Jimmy Brown of Syracuse is making a tremendous bid.

Paige Cothren of Mississippi, C. R. Roberts of Southern California and Bill Barnes of Wake Forest rate highly at fullback.

USC's Jon Arnett, Michigan State's Clarence Peaks and 1955 All America Jim Swink from Texas Christian appear to be the victims of circumstance.

Arnett, one of the best runners of this or any year, was able to play only half the campaign under a Pacific Coast Conference ruling limiting certain seniors to five games. Peaks' college career ended last week due to torn knee ligaments requiring an operation.

Swink continues to be an important cog in the Horned Frog attack as a pass receiver and blocker, but the lad who captured the nation's imagination as a climax runner a year ago is being fairly well contained by enemy defenses.

Minnesota End Lineman of Week

Minneapolis, Nov. 1 (AP)—Persistent Perry Gehring of Minnesota almost ran out of positions but never ran out of patience. His reward today was selection as the Associated Press Lineman of the Week.

Gehring's smashing end play was credited with contributing vitally to the unbeaten Gopher's 20-7 upset of Michigan last Saturday.

It was a major milestone for the Yankton, S. D. native who spent his first season at Minnesota last year walking a treadmill that went from fullback to center to guard but never to the varsity.

He saw no action at all in 1955. But Coach Murray Warmath told his aides: "There's just got to be a place for a boy who wants to play football as badly as this one does."

Was All-State Back

They found the sopt this fall. Gehring, all All-State back as a South Dakota high schooler, was plopped into an end position with the fourth team when practice started.

By the time the season opened he was up to the second team. Steady, aggressive performances since then climaxed in the biggest day of Gehring's college career at Ann Arbor Saturday.

He caught an important pass in the first stages of the Gopher comeback from a 7-0 Michigan lead and later delivered several big tackles when the Wolverines were trying to counter Minnesota's second half outburst. Offensively he was stronger than ever.

And two days ago Warmath made Gehring's success story complete by promoting him to the first team.

Although he is a junior scholastically, the 5-11, 190-pounder has two more years of competition remaining after this one.

Carlo Looked Like Truck Driver

Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP)—Truck driver Carlo Sarlo's debut as a main event welterweight was anything but sensational.

Joe Miceli, 10th ranking 145-pounder from New York and a veteran of 84 fights, went through the motions of a matador waving his cape in a bull ring from the fifth round on and carved out a 10-round unanimous decision.

Judge John Bray scored it 49-43 under the five-point "must" system. Judge Jim McManus called it 49-39 and Referee Bernard Weissman scored 49-42, the same as the Associated Press.

Sarlo, a stocky newcomer to the national television audience, had more heart than talent and his charges at Miceli appeared like offtackle smashes of a fullback. Several times he nearly plunged headfirst through the ropes as Miceli pirouetted around him.

Marion Next At Cleveland?

St. Louis, Nov. 1 (AP)—Marty Marion, now a strong candidate for the Cleveland Indians managership with Leo Durocher out of the picture, says he is awaiting a visit from Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

The 39-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal shortstop, who recently resigned as Chicago White Sox manager, said Greenberg told him Friday he would confer with him in St. Louis this week. He didn't pinpoint the time.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," Marion said when asked if he was available for the job "I don't want to comment on the situation until I've talked to Greenberg."

Al Lopez resigned as Cleveland manager and was signed by the White Sox for Marion's former position.

Japanese Heap Praise on Kipp's 'Hidden Pitches'

Tokyo, Nov. 1 (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers' big 24-year old southpaw Fred Kipp again came in for high praise today from two of Japan's top baseball coaches.

The rookie lefthand pitcher handcuffed the Japanese All-Stars Wednesday at Shimonoseki, in southern Honshu, on a two-hit no-run performance while his mates collected eight hits to score four runs.

Kipp's tight hurling gave the Dodgers their sixth victory against two losses and one tie in their 20-game Japan barnstorming tour.

Osamu Mihara said "Kipp is a remarkable change of pace pitcher. He doesn't have a fast ball but his ability to mix sinkers, curves and knuckleballs threw the Japanese off completely."

Hides Ball Well

Mihara piloted Fukuoka's Nishitetsu Lions to their first Japan "World Series" title this year. Wednesday he piloted the Japanese All-Stars.

Mihara said Nobuyasu Mizuhara, manager of Tokyo's Yomiuri Giants, tried everything possible to watch "how Kipp holds the ball." But Mizuhara never succeeded because Kipp kept the ball well concealed," Mihara said.

Mizuhara said "Kipp's change of pace is terrific. His splendid pitching backed by good hitting was the major factor contributing to Brooklyn's win."

Lefties in Minority

Sixty-five per cent of major leaguers are right-handed batters, according to the Official Encyclopedia of Baseball.

KHS Cross Country Squad Set for Section Nine Meet

Kingston High School's cross country team will get a final crack at undefeated Newburgh Free Academy Friday in the Section Nine meet on Bear Mountain's 2.5 mile course.

The Maroons wound up second to the Goldbacks in the DUSO League run last week and are aiming for an upset. NFA also holds a regular season victory over its arch foe.

Coach G. Warren Kias will take the customary seven runners to the meet. His long-shot chances rest with captain Dave Beehler, John Weekly, Ray Peterson, Tom Hayes, Marcel Flamm, Eckhart Blocker and possibly John Dailey.

Hayes posted the best time for Kingston in the most recent run, 13:16, and finished sixth. It marked his top effort this year.

One Race Meet

Beehler was eighth and was followed closely across the finish line by Weekly and Peterson to give Kingston four places in the first 10. In all fairness to Weekly and Peterson, both were not in tip-top running shape because of physical ailments.

The meet will be run as one race with schools from Ulster, Orange and Rockland counties competing. Champions will be crowned in Class A, B and C with the harriers with the best times qualifying for the Intersectionals at Buffalo, Nov. 10.

Onteora Central heads the UCAL entrants. The Indians are fresh from capturing their third straight UCAL title and are the defending Class C champions. They will be favored to retain their crown.

Other UCAL teams entered are Saugerties, Wallkill and Marlboro. The Sawyers will be vieing for Class B honors while Wallkill and Marlboro will be shooting to dethrone Onteora.

BOWLING SCORES

Gordon Anderson, anchor man for the Lobster squad of the IBM Superior League, led city keglers last night with a 276 solo and 645 series.

Anderson fired nine strikes in a row in the opener for his 276, dipped to 151, then made a fine comeback with 212.

Bob Birchall of Wilber Heating powered a 640 series and Ed Esposito 267-629 in the Central Rec Major, where Prospect Dairies put together games of 995, 942 and 972 on alleys 1 and 2 for a new team series mark of 2909. Alpine held the old record of 2904.

ROBINSON FIRES 620

Three other Central Major trundlers soared over the "600" mark with George Robinson hitting 202-226-620, Fred Schryver 215-204-609; and Hod Spaulding 210-225-605.

Elston Sport Shop swept three games from Alpine with 1002-2896 to gain a half-game lead over Jones Dairy No. 2 at the end of the first round of action. Elstons have a 14-7 record. Jones Dairy has won 13½ and lost 7½.

George Robinson holds both individual records of 268-654. Tommie's Tavern's 1124 and Prospect Dairies' 2909 are high team standards to date.

ST. LOUIS SUMMER SESSIONS RED HOT

Bowling scores were as hot as the weather in St. Louis this summer. Every three and 4-man team record was broken or tied in what was probably the most concentrated onslaught the record book has ever seen. Cellucoat shot 2800 four-man series, shattering old record of 2700 set in 1954. Cellucoat's 1019 team game broke old record of 1010 set in 1954. Floriss Lanes shot 2149 for new 3-man team record, upping the old standard of 2146 set in 1949. Floriss Lanes also tied game record of 791 set in 1954 by Boswell Engineering of Hackensack, N. J. Earlier in the year, Otto's Restaurant of Albany, had 790...Guido Bros. Stars an all-woman's team of the Broad Olney men's major league in Philadelphia rolled 2807 recently, with Mary Cappo's 703 setting the pace...Miss Tash Rosenkoff, 21, an employe of the city's Department of Parks in Detroit, has reason to be proud of her 241 and 231 games. These scores are good for any bowler, but the fact that Miss Bosenkoff has an artificial left foot makes the accomplishment doubly praiseworthy.

IBM Kingston-Poughkeepsie Sports Winners to be Honored

Kingston IBM plant winners will be honored along with Poughkeepsie winners, a combined total of 269 Watson trophy winners and guests, Saturday, Nov. 3, at the IBM Country Club at Poughkeepsie.

Sleep Jim Crowley, one of Notre Dame's legendary "Four Horsemen and Fordham University football coach from 1913 until 1941, will be the guest speaker.

The dinner honors Kingston and Poughkeepsie plant winners in the activities' program conducted throughout the spring and summer months. A semi-annual affair, a similar dinner is held in the spring for those who have excelled in fall and winter sports and arts.

John G. Phillips, vice chairman of the board of IBM Corp., will award the trophies at the affair. Present, besides the contest winners and their guests, will be management representatives from IBM World Headquarters offices at New York city, as well as from the Kingston and Poughkeepsie plants of the company.

Thomas N. Creighton, country club president will preside at the award dinner. William J. Mair, vice president and general manager of the Poughkeepsie plant, will extend greetings.

Army-Navy Game Another Sellout

West Point, Nov. 1 — The Army-Navy football game which will be played at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium Dec. 1, is a sellout, authorities of the two service academies announced simultaneously yesterday.

The Army Athletic Association is in the process of returning 6,000 applications, Col. Elliott W. Amick, business manager, said.

Sweeten mayonnaise with honey and make it tart with lime juice. Fold into whipped cream and serve over a fruit salad.

Henrich Named Giant Coach

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Tommy Henrich has joined the "enemy." For years a fixture in right field with the New York Yankees, Henrich returns to baseball in 1957 after a six-year lapse as a coach under Manager Billy Rigney of the New York Giants.

Since Henrich turned down an offer from the Yankees to manage a club in their minor league farm system after the 1951 World Series, he has been out of baseball. A brewery executive in Cincinnati for two years, he has been working in radio and television in recent months.

Horace Stoneham, Giant president, announced the appointment yesterday.

Albert to Stay As 49er Coach

San Francisco, Nov. 1 (AP) — Tony Morabito, co-owner of the San Francisco 49ers, announced yesterday that Coach Frankie Albert will be at the helm again next season.

"Frank is our head coach now," Morabito said. "He will be our head coach in 1957 . ."

"I am going on record because I wan to refute, once and for all, the silly, stupid, inane and fantastic reports concerning Albert's future.

High Cost of Time

Lancaster, Pa. (AP)—Here is an item about the high price of time: A 175-year-old grandfather clock was sold at auction for $1,320. Auctioneer Stanley H. Dieter of nearby Lampeter said "I never heard of such a price even for the best of clocks," adding that a good grandfather clock generally brings a price of $750.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

"Like a poodle, it was—a dark brown poodle, but with long tail that seemed to be shaved—and a shaved face. If a poodle is thought to look clownish, any poodle I've seen looked like an undertaker alongside this fellow. What happened? Did someone forget to dock a poodle's tail?"

Art had been an Irish water spaniel, one of the earliest of spaniels, whose fine, crinkly, waterproof coat and large webbed feet make it the finest of water dogs. The hair on the face and tail is short and flat, giving the shaved appearance. The long hair of the topknot comes to a widow's peak on the forehead to add to the clownish look.

The typical Irish water spaniel color is a deep liver or puce. The eye color varies from hazel to brown, as is expected in dogs of any breed that happen to approach this color.

There are several reasons for their small numbers. For one thing, the coat is not too easy to keep clean and sweet. Occasional grooming will do it. Plenty of swimming will too, but without both the Irishman is not a house dog.

Spaniel Intelligent

The rat tailed spaniel is an intelligent and sensitive dog. Not everyone can get the most out of him. Only too often he will resent forcefulness and cease to respond as so many breeds do in spite of tactless treatment. Reprimands are acceptable, but by voice and not the heavy hand.

Handled with a soft touch, on the other hand, the Irish water spaniel can become the closest and most effective kind of gunning companion. The soft touch, however, does not make a mechanical dog overnight and field trial participants can get mechanical response from the other retriever breeds much more quickly.

There is one characteristic that has been long overlooked by gun dog men who want a dog to double on retrieving and quartering to flush. The Irishman is geared to travel with greater speeds, ease and stamina on land than the other retriever breeds.

One of the finest of our gun dog breeds is the most difficult to see in cover. Against fall foliage, or immobilized at point against a hillside of fallen leaves, the mahogany coat of the Irish setter is difficult to distinguish—an indistinct picture by one of the most distinctive dogs.

This blending coloring is shared by some of the solid colored breeds—the Weimarner and Viszla — and by solid or nearly solid liver or heavily ticked shorthairs. A predominantly liver or lemon pointer is not the easiest dog in the world to spot, particularly when ticking is added.

White Dog Prominent

Excepting in snow, where distant patches seen here and there through cover are confusing, it is the predominantly white dog that stands out. Black, lemon or liver and white or tricolors with large white areas can be followed and located more easily.

Some hunters bell their dogs. This works with a close working dog as the dog's direction is evident as long as it is in motion and the sudden cessation of sound is a signal that the dog is on point. Beiling of course, isn't effective with wide ranging dogs. They may be out of earshot a large part of the time.

If you are a novice and have difficulty following the progress of your dog in the field, be assured that the situation will improve with practice.

Learn Dog's Speed

Old-timers learn to judge the distance and speed of their dogs. They become familiar with the dog's pattern and habits with regard to terrain.

They can pretty well predict where a dog will come out of one piece of cover and enter another, what side of a stone wall he'll travel with the prevailing wind direction and when he should reach a particular open spot—unless he's "back in there on point."

With experience, the color of the dog can come to mean little, but you have to know the woods and know your dog. Meanwhile, if you have difficulty, sew a strip of bright colored cloth to the dog's collar. Your eye will pick it up quickly and make your hunting much more enjoyable.

GLOBETROTTER ACE—Deacon Davis, one of the new players with the Harlem Globetrotters, who play the Philadelphia Sphas, Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the municipal auditorium. Davis played varsity basketball at the University of Iowa.

Durocher Nixes Greenberg Offer

Los Angeles, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians were still without a field manager today.

Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland American League baseball club, said Leo Durocher "has advised me that he cannot be considered a candidate for the manager's job."

He said Durocher plans to remain in his job as an NBC television executive in Hollywood, business associates having convinced Leo " that the radio and TV fields here, where he maintains his home, have benefits and security unmatched in baseball."

Likes Hollywood

Durocher, who left baseball after the 1955 season following 16 seasons as manager of the National League Dodgers and Giants, said:

"I definitely feel my future is here in Hollywood where I can be with my family." His wife is actress Laraine Day.

U. S. Gains First Horse Show Title

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—If any of the five competing nations are going to dominate the international jumping competition at the National Horse show as Mexico has done in the past then they had better get started.

There have been three international events and as many winners in the first two days of the 8-day stand at Madison Square Garden.

Canada started off by winning the opening phase of the three-event low score competition challenge trophy series. Then Brig. Gen. Humberto Mariles, the great Mexican rider, won the Good Will Challenge trophy.

U. S. Gets First

Last night the United States equestrian team broke into the winning column, placing one-two in the Royce A. Drake Memorial challenge trophy competition. Only Ireland and Chile have yet failed to come through with a victory.

Hugh Wiley, 29-year old apprentice seaman on leave from the Navy, gave the U. S. its first triumph with William St. Steinkraus of Westport, Conn., the team, captain, placing second. They won after two jumpoffs on the basis of times.

Wiley, riding the 11-year-old Nautical, was clocked in 30.4 seconds and Steinkraus, up on First Boy, in 32.8 seconds. Ireland's Lieut. William Anthony Ringrose, the other competitor in the second jumpoff, was third with a 36.4 clocking.

Red Sox Give Owen Release

Boston, Nov. 1 (AP) — Mickey Owen, a former star catcher who has served as coach under manager Mike Higgins the past two seasons, has been released by the Boston Red Sox.

The Red Sox announced yesterday that Higgins plans to go along with only four coaches — Jack Burns, Del Baker, Dave Ferriss and Paul Schreiber.

Two Men Injured As Truck Overturns

Two men were injured this morning when a truck operated by Walter Ellsworth, Kingston, loaded with blacktop material overturned near King's Village, Saugerties road, after it went out of control, state police reported. Ellsworth lost control of the truck on a curve when he attempted to avoid a car which allegedly had pulled out on the highway. Ellsworth sustained a possible fractured leg or hip and with John Bush, 46, 73 Hasbrouck avenue, was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Layton's Ambulance of Saugerties. Bush was treated for a shoulder injury and discharged.

State police reported a car operated by John Pekurney, 69, of 61 First street, Saugerties, was going south. In the car was Mrs. Pekurney, 69, and Linda Mach, 35, of Malden. They were uninjured. In attempting to avoid the car, the driver of the truck, swerved, sideswiped the car on the left and then overturned.

Reds Reported Forming Cordon Around Budapest

Budapest, Nov. 1 (AP)—For the first time in nine days no gunfire was heard today in the center of Budapest. Foodshops were operating, but other commerce, industry and transport were dead.

The revolution-scarred capital on the Danube was bathed in bright sunshine and many people were out in the streets. But they were out for food, trying to find relatives and to pick up the threads of their lives torn by the anti-Soviet, anti-Communist Civil War.

Russian tanks and infantry had apparently been withdrawn from the capital to their bases. But there were reports that the Russians had thrown a cordon about the capital, some 10 miles outside.

Secret Police Hunted

Vengeance squads of young revolutionaries still prowled the streets of Budapest and the city's sewers, hunting members of the hated Hungarian Communist Secret Police.

When they found them in the sewers, they shot them and dumped their bodies. When they found them in the streets, they hung them up by the feet. When they shot them in the streets, they poured gasoline on their bodies and burned them.

Despite repeated pleas of the Communist-dominated government of Premier Imre Nagy, nobody was back at work in the factories. There was no public transport. Nearly everything was still at a standstill.

Resentment Mounts

Resentment mounted in Budapest against the Nagy regime.

The political situation was unclear. Nagy's government was trying to hang on—despite the shouts of massed demonstrators yesterday that "this government of murderers" resign.

The revolutionary committee running the rest of the country was believed conferring with the Nagy government. The major points in the revolutionaries' demands were deadlines for the withdrawal of Russians from all Hungary and guarantees for really free elections.

It was believed the main reason the bulk of Hungary's working population remained on strike was to protest the continued presence of Russian troops.

Planes Sink . . .

Red sea off Suez, at the southern approaches to the canal. An Admiralty spokesman said the Egyptian frigate Domiat went down under the guns of the British cruiser Newfoundland.

"The Domiat was carrying mines with the apparent intention of laying them in that area," said the Admiralty announcement. It added 69 survivors from the Domiat had been picked up by British ships.

The British Defense Ministry said air strikes were being carried out by carrier as well as by shore-based aircraft.

Not at War: Britain

Despite the hostilities and the break in relations, a foreign office spokesman said Britain did not regard herself as at war with Egypt. But he said plans were made to reoccupy Britain's bases in the Suez Canal zone by military forces.

Syria, Egypt's ally, recalled her ambassadors from Britain and France for consultation after declaring a state of emergency and general mobilization. Damascus said Syrian forces fought a skirmish with Israeli forces on the Israeli side of the frontier last night and then withdrew.

May Quit UN

The Egyptian government said it also was considering withdrawing from the United Nations because of what it called the world organization's "inability and failure in dealing with big colonial countries' ambitions."

The British spokesman said attacks against Egyptian airfields were expected to go on throughout the day and gave this picture of the raids:

British bombers dropped delayed action bombs with fuses of different lengths on Egyptian fields last night. He said the fuse devices were used to give Egyptian personnel a chance to get away safely.

Planes on the ground, hangars and service installations were destroyed. Pilots said they met ineffective antiaircraft fire. One pilot reported an attempted interception by an Egyptian meteor night fighter.

Breaks With France

Amman, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Jordan government today severed diplomatic relations with France and said it is now considering its relations with Britain in the light of Middle East developments. An official statement said the Jordan ambassador and embassy emloyes in Paris would be withdrawn. Earlier, an announcement said Foreign Minister Dr. Hussein Fakhri El Khalidi summoned the British and French ambassadors in Amman and strongly protested British-French "acts of aggression" against Egypt.

Salt Lake Gets Snow

Salt Lake City, Nov. 1 (AP)—A storm which set an October snowfall record here continued today to scatter flurries across the inter-mountain region. It left seven and a half inches here. October's snowfall here added up to 11.2 inches, the Weather Bureau said. The previous record, set in 1919, was 10.6 inches. The storm left 4.6 inches of snow by midnight last night and added 2.9 inches more this morning.

Romania Unrest Is Reported

Vienna, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Hungarian radio said tonight anti-Soviet demonstrations broke out in the neighboring Soviet satellite of Romania today.

Free Radio Budapest said thousands of students had demonstrated in Bucharest, the Romanian capital, shouting for French language courses instead of Russian. It added that Romanian police had made arrests among the demonstrating students.

Eden Faces . . .

suggested British public opinion has never been so divided at a time of war since the days of the American revolution.

Labor Party Balks

The last semblance of a bipartisan foreign policy—backed by both the Conservative government and its Socialist opposition, the Labor party — was wiped off the board.

After an acrid debate in the House of Commons, the Labor party filed its motion of censure reading:

"That this House deplores the action of her majesty's government in resorting to armed force against Egypt in clear violation of the United Nations Charter, thereby affronting the convictions of a large section of the British people, dividing the Commonwealth, straining the Atlantic Alliance, and gravely damaging the foundations of international order."

Position Shaky

Opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell pledged the Labor party to fight Eden's Middle East move "by every constitutional means." Roughly half of Britain's approximately 30 million voters regard themselves as Laborites. The remnants of Britain's once-powerful Liberal party also appeared to back Gaitskell.

The Liberal News Chronicle said: "Only a miracle can save Eden now." It declared editorially:

Confidence Questioned

"There can be no further confidence in a man who has brought his country to such a dangerous state of ignominy and confusion."

Conservative circles worried over charges aired abroad that Britain and France acted in collusion with Israel in order to strike down Egyptian President Nasser—the man who nationalized the Suez canal. The Conservative Daily Sketch called on Eden to deny this "smear."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian asserted that "millions of British people are deeply shocked by the aggressive policy of the government" and said the attack on Egypt is "a disaster of the first magnitude."

The Laborite Daily Herald described it as "lunatic aggression."

Even newspapers which supported the government made it clear that they are deeply worried over the attitude of the United States.

Narcotic . . .

been responsible for denial of his privileges to perform major surgery at Veterans' Memorial Hospital, Ellenville.

It is understood the narcotics charge against Dr. Bockman was the result of an investigation of illegal narcotics traffic launched some time ago by District Attorney Howard C. St. John and conducted with the cooperation of the State Narcotics Bureau. It was reported the charge involves illegal sale of an "artificial" morphine drug in violation of the law.

Other arrests for violation of the narcotics law are expected, it was learned.

Dr. Bockman's damage action alleged he had been granted preliminary privileges at the Ellenville hospital and that under the rules of the medical staff he was to become a full-fledged member of the hospital staff last January. He said he had served the probationary six months period.

The physician claims he was not granted full staff privileges and last April was denied the right to perform major surgery by a 10 to 1 vote of the medical staff. He then instituted the action and claimed a residency had been completed at a Puerto Rican hospital.

Details of the charge against Shelby were not revealed. It was understood, however, there will be other arrests on gambling charges.

Shelby, who was arrested while doing traffic duty, served as an officer during the summer. He is a native of Danville, Ky.

The indictments against Dr. Bockman and Shelby were presented in Supreme Court Wednesday noon and Justice Taylor transferred them to County Court on the motion of District Attorney St. John. The bench warrants were immediately issued for their arrests.

Area Chest . . .

be sought by various methods, including the placing of coin boxes in various business establishments, special promotions, and continued solicitations in several divisions that have not completed their contacts.

The campaign has already proved the most successful in the three-year history of the local Community Chest. The first campaign, held in the fall of 1954, resulted in approximately $58,000 in pledges, and the second campaign produced about $72,500.

Completely organized, the volunteer campaign organization this year consisted of an estimated 500 to 600 individuals, including 350 house-to-house campaigners. Over 90 per cent of all dwelling units in the area—which includes Ulster and parts of Esopus and Hurley as well as the city of Kingston—were contacted, as were all businesses and industries. A new division this year, Building and Trades, was formed to contact construction workers and contractors.

The eight agencies benefiting from the Chest drive are: Kingston Boys Club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts Jewish Community Center, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, YMCA and YWCA. N. Jansen Fowler is president of the Community Chest board of directors.

Two Are Arrested

Michael Scarselli, 40, Malden, was arrested by state police in the town of Saugerties Wednesday on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcoholic beverage. Also arrested was Anthony Scarselli, 23, of Malden, charged with public intoxication. Both were held for a hearing before Justice Glenford Myers of the town of Saugerties. Michael Scarselli was operating a truck on Route 32 at the time of the arrest.

Menzies Defends Action

Canberra, Australia, Nov. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told Parliament tonight the British-French military move against Egypt was a "police action." He declared it was a proper move, taken in a state of great emergency to keep the armies of Israel and Egypt apart and thus permit mediation. Menzies said Australia heard with pleasure the statement of President Eisenhower in which he maintained the American view that use of force in the Middle East was both unwise and improper.
